5000 REPORTED DEAD IN FLOOD AS TYPHOON STRIKES JAPAN

Three Rivers Said to Have Burst Their Banks, Destroying Many Villages, as Result of New Disaster at Tottori, a Province Northwest of Kobe.

FURTHER DAMAGE IN TOKIO FROM DELUGE

Bank of Japan Agrees to Lend $25,000,000 to Japanese Insurance Companies for Payments on Policies for Victims of Quake.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Sept. 17.—Five thousand persons are reported to have perished in the floods which followed a typhoon at Tottori, northwest of Kobe, Japan, Saturday, according to an Osaka dispatch to the Central News. The rivers Fukue, Chiyu and Takumi burst their banks, destroying many villages. The terrific downpour of rain has been general, Tokyo and Yokohama have suffered greatly from the deluge and railways are crippled by the floods.
The Imperial Princes have decided to return to Tokyo.

Imperial Appeals for Public's Co-operation in Reconstruction

By the Associated Press.
TOKYO, Sept. 17.—The bank of Japan has agreed to make a loan of 50,000,000 yen ($250,000, 000) to the Japanese Insurance companies for payments on policies for thousands killed during the earthquake and fires in Japan, according to an announcement after a meeting of Tsumura Yano, president of one of the companies, representing 47 companies, and Mr. Inoue, Finance Minister, and Mr. Ichiki, president of the Bank of Japan. President Yano offered as security properties worth 4,000,000 yen, he said. A total of 34,000,000 yen ($170,000,000) is necessary to meet insurance. Mr. Yano said, and the additional 20,000,000 yen ($100,000,000) will be used to assist the living policyholders here.
Workers of Japan are virtually destitute here, but 170,000 to 200,000 laborers will be provided with work immediately to build houses and bridges. It was announced. About 30,000 carpenters and plasterers from all parts of Japan are being sent to Tokyo to help in the reconstruction.

Foreign Mails Through Kobe.
Kobe replaces Yokohama as the port through which foreign mails will be routed, according to an arrangement made by the various consuls at a meeting held at Kobe. These meetings will be continued until Yokohama has been re-established.
The postal authorities announced.
The Emperor of Japan has issued an edict appealing to officials and citizens to co-operate in the struggle for reconstruction and restoration of national power. In Japan, it is pointed out, an imperial edict is rarely issued.

American business men remaining in Tokyo have been inundated with inquiries regarding building material, machinery, safes and utensils of many kinds. A long period must elapse before Japan will be able to supply the demand of the industrial districts, it is said.
Honjo and Fukagawa were completely destroyed and thousands of workmen were killed. Manufacturers of jewelry and other luxuries are converting their factories to production of necessities, but machinery for this purpose must be purchased abroad and consequent delay is anticipated in the task of reconstruction facing the devastated areas.

World-wide Relief Measures Create Deep Impression on Japan.

HOTEL BILL IN WASHINGTON "JUMPED" BY HENRY FORD

Local Ford Dealer at Capital. However, Settles Matter on Instruction From Detroit.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—
The richest man in the world has "jumped" a hotel bill. Henry Ford, who was in Washington last week for two days, en route to Detroit, left the George Washington Hotel here without settling his account, but he has since paid it.
Ford, accompanied by two others, came to Washington last Monday and stayed until Tuesday evening, the automobile manufacturer registering under the name of "A. Henry." The party left in such a hurry that Ford forgot to settle.
Today L. C. Rutherford, local Ford dealer, received a telegram from Ford asking him to settle the account and to return a statement to Detroit. The bill was paid.

SAYS QUAKE WILL DESTROY JAPAN'S FAITH IN MYTHS

Bishop Partridge Declares Era of Christianity Will Begin in Nation

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 17.— A new Japan will result from the recent earthquake, according to the Rev. Sidney Partridge, Episcopal Bishop of Kansas City, who was missionary Bishop at Kyoto, Japan, for 11 years.
Christianity will grow in the land of the "Sun Goddess," because its people have been disillusioned as to Japanese myths, Bishop Partridge said in a sermon here last night. Superstition in Japan has received a vital blow, he said, if the shrine of Ama-Terasu, the Sun Goddess, was washed away in a tidal wave.
"If the shrine has fallen, her power has vanished," the Bishop said. "Japan will be open to conviction. The era of Christianity will begin."

BANK HOLDUP AT GALESBURG, ILL.

By the Associated Press.
GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 17.—
Locking the cashier and assistant cashier in the vault, two young unmasked robbers obtained $2500 cash and $2000 Liberty bonds in a holdup at the State Bank of Commerce, near here, at 9:30 this morning. The robbers made their escape in a car thought to have been stolen from a Galesburg garage last evening.

WOMAN FATALLY INJURED BY AUTO THAT SPEEDS ON

Mrs. Anna Barr, 65, Hit by Speeding Machine as She Steps Into Street to Board Trolley Car.

WRONG LICENSE NUMBER TAKEN

Man Sought by Police as Driver Says He Pursued Fleeing Auto—91st Motor Vehicle Fatality of Year.

The death at Baptist Hospital at 12:30 a. m. today of Mrs. Anna Barr, 65 years old, of 2775 Madison street, Granite City, from injuries suffered at 10:40 o'clock last night, when hit in front of 5424 Page avenue by a speeding automobile that did not stop, brought the number of motor-vehicle fatalities this year in St.
Louis up to 91, the same as this time last year.

Mrs. Barr, with her husband, Walter Barr, and their daughter, Mrs.
Rose Fugler of Kirkwood, was starting home from a visit with a brother-in-law of Mrs. Barr, Dr. Matthew D. Vosburgh, 1341 Arlington avenue. They stood in front of the Page avenue house, waiting for an eastbound street car. As one approached, Mrs. Barr stepped into the street ahead of her companions.
An eastbound Ford coupe or sedan, without headlights, and speeding,
the police were told, hit her, knocking her unconscious and fracturing her skull.

Police men who were given a license number as that of the machine which hit her spent several hours tracing it. The man to whom was issued gave the name of a mat. day when he had transferred it.
This man, awakened, explained that he had been driving west and, seeing the accident, turned to give assistance. Another man jumped on his car and cried out to pursue the machine which struck Mrs. Barr. They did so, but lost the trail at Union and Delmar boulevards. The man who accompanied him corroborated his story.

Man, Held for Death of Girl, Alleged to Have Made Forbidden Turn

A coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness holding Joseph Fox of 6141 Elizabeth avenue, buyer in a department store, was returned today in the case of Miss Bertha Schub-han, 19 years old, of 6412 South King's highway. Miss Schubhan suffered injuries Friday when a passenger in Fox's automobile, dying the next day.

Man, 83, and Two Women Badly Hurled in Auto Accidents

Five other automobile accidents were reported yesterday. One in which a car was driven into a ditch at night, with injuries to seven persons.
Henry Jacobs, 53 years old, reported, of 4954 West Pine boulevard, suffered fractures of ribs on the right side and cuts on his chin when struck by a machine driven by a woman at Euclid avenue and West Pine boulevard. He was taken to Barnes Hospital.

Miss Adell Wuenschner, 17, a telephone operator, 3224 Cass street, was struck by a car on a street car at Grand boulevard and Caroline street, when a southbound automobile hit her, fracturing her skull. A policeman chased the driver and caught him. He said he was Beverly Welch, 25, an electrician, of 2649 Laclede avenue, to whom the license had been issued, but also gave three other names. City hospital physicians said he had been drinking and was detained under police charges of felony wounding, leaving the scene of an accident and driving while intoxicated.

Two persons got in the way of a car in which Emanuel Cobillo, 25, of 1423 Biddle street, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Amato Vito, 57, a widow, of the same address, were riding, at Fifteenth and Biddle streets, so Cobillo averted the car into an iron pole and Mrs. Vito suffered fractures of the skull and collar bone.

Louis Ilmick, 29, of 6917 Garner avenue, his wife, Edna, 25, and their 9-month-old son, Robert, were hurt when his machine overturned at William Evers, 31, 2206 South Third street, was injured in another accident.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The engine of a Curtiss airplane in which he was night flying over the city suddenly going dead, Stewart Chadwick, 28 years old, said to be a freelance aviator, fell 3000 feet last night, plunging into the East River, just below the Hell Gate bridge, and escaped death. Though stunned by the shock, he was able to draw himself from the wreckage and swim ashore. He was taken to St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, suffering from shock and exposure.

a flight over the city. Realizing his danger when his motor went dead, he made a desperate attempt to plane to safety on Long Island. His plane fell into a nose dive, however, and plunged to the river, narrowly missing Welfare Island in its fall.

CANADIAN INDIANS GREET PRINCE AS "CHIEF MORNING STAR"

Cowboys Help Welcome Him on His Arrival at Town Near

By the Associated Press.
HIGH RIVER, Alberta, Sept. 17.— Cowboys, ranchers and townspeople of the High River district gave the Prince of Wales a cordial welcome when his special train arrived here last night. The Prince walked from the station to the main street unaccompanied by secret service men or police.

"They are my neighbors, why should they not greet me?" asked the royal rancher of his secretary. So the police officers watched the welcoming of the owner of an "E. P." ranch from the windows of the private car.

As the Prince reached the street,
David Barr's Paw and Red Cloud, minor chiefs of the Stoney Indians, from the Morley Reservation, were waiting to greet him. When the Prince drew abreast of them, Barr's Paw stood erect and in perfect English, bowed to the Prince and said:
"Good evening, Chief Morning Star."
The Prince then proceeded to his ranch by automobile.

ST. LOUIS AMATEURS PICK UP RADIO FROM ARCTIC EXPLORERS

Operator of McMillan Expedition Will Try to Put Call Through Again Tonight

The Post-Dispatch today received word from the four amateur radio operators in St. Louis, between midnight and 3 a. m. today, picked up code messages from Station WNP.
The ship of the Donald McMillan expedition now in far northern waters on a voyage to the North Pole.

The amateurs reported that the ship was trying to communicate with the Post-Dispatch and with the Chicago Board of Trade. It was not apparent that there was an emergency call or that any mishap caused it to be sent out, as the WNP operator signaled that he would try to put the call through again at midnight tonight. This is published so that radio users with long distance sets may listen for tonight's call.
They are requested to notify the Post-Dispatch if any success is had.
No one was on duty at the Post-Dispatch station when the signals came this morning.

MRS. MARGARET ERMELINE, 104, DIES ON FARM NEAR ST. CHARLES

Had Lived There Since Coming to This Country From Germany in 1851.

Mrs. Margaret Ermeline, 104 years old, died on the farm where she has lived for the last 72 years, about eight miles north of St. Charles, at 2:45 p. m. yesterday. Death was caused by senility. She had been confined to her bed for several days, but before that time she had been able to get up.

She came to this country from Hannover, Germany, in 1851, with her late husband, Gerhart, who died 16 years ago when 87, and went to the farm near St. Charles. She had lived with her son, Herman, the only survivor of nine children, since his father's death. Nine grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren also survive.

HOLDUP VICTIMS ASKED TO VIEW 'STICKY' HENNESSY

Reputed Gangster and Gunman Held in Jail at Clayton After Eight or Nine Robberies in County.

AT WHEEL OF BLUE STUTZ WHEN TAKEN

Machine Answers Description of That From Which Shots That Killed William Mc-Gee Were Fired.

James (Sticky) Hennessy, reputed gangster and gunman, sought by St.
Louis police in connection with a double murder, is being held in jail at Clayton today for possible identification by victims of eight or nine holdups in St. Louis County early yesterday morning, before county officers take any action to turn him over to St. Louis police. He was arrested about 4 a. m. yesterday on the Manchester road, a short distance east of the Denny road, immediately following a series of hold-ups in that neighborhood.

Arrest of Hennessy and Thomas
Skinner was ordered by the St.
Louis police last week in connection with the murder of Elmer Malone and fatal wounding of State Representative McGee, who were shot down a week ago last night in front of the saloon of Michael Hogan, Jefferson and Cass avenues, by gunmen
Sam Ritter, 27, proprietor of a blue Stutz touring car. Skinner surrendered to police Saturday night, and denied any connection with the killing, but is being held.

Driving Stutz When Caught.
Hennsey was at the wheel of a blue Stutz touring car when arrested and county officers state this machine was the one they held for a time after it was abandoned by robbers who held up a saloon in the south part of the county on Aug. 20.
It was turned over to a sister of Hennessy, when she proved title to it.

"Chippy" Robinson, Egan gangster, who is in jail, said that he was arrested in the past in company with members of the Hogan gang, and two women were taken from another machine near that of Hennessy, but were released.
Sam Ritter, 27, proprietor of a roadhouse north of Wellston, who officers stated, was seen in company with Hennessy, Robinson and Connell at a roadhouse shortly before the holdups, was arrested last night and is being investigated.

Trailed by Night Riders.

The "night riding" squad, comprising Deputy Sheriffs William Grupp, George Roth and Charles Kerfoot, visited the Green Mill Inn, near Manchester and Denny roads, about 4 a. m. yesterday, after they had followed for nearly two hours a trio of machines believed to have been occupied by gangsters.
These machines went to the Green Mill Inn. The officers entered the inn, they stated, and saw a group of men at a table, including Hennessy, Robinson and Connell. The men left while the officers were looking over the roadhouse.

A few minutes later a man entered the roadhouse with the information that a series of holdups will in progress a short distance east on the Manchester road. The "night riders" hurried up the road and found a blue Stutz car in the ditch, partially blocking the road, with Robinson at the wheel. About 70 feet to the east was a Studebaker, containing Robinson and Connell.
An unoccupied Moon touring car was standing along the road farther east. Officers said these were the cars they had been trailing.

Hennessy showed fight when Deputy Sheriff Roth dragged him from his machine. Roth said, and was beaten in the neck. Roth said he struck Hennessy with his fists when Hennessy made a move as if reaching for a weapon. A revolver was taken from Hennessy's pocket.
Roth said.

Names of Victims Withheld.

Several persons standing nearby,
among them victims of the holdups,
told the officers three men had fled from the Stutz car across the fields.
County officers are withholding the names of their informants, but said at least eight or nine holdups had taken place there in rapid succession. They declared three of the victims partially identified Hennessy, a woman victim of one of the robberies, who identified Hennessy, told officers she had concealed diamonds valued at $6000 in her clothing and they were overlooked in the holdup.
A man if another machine stopped on weeds adjoining the road, and recovered it later.

Hennessy gave his age as 19 years and his address as the Albermarle Hotel, Sarah street and Westminster Place.
Police who investigated the killing of Malone and McGee, first declared a renewal of the Hogan-Egan gang after the arrest of Hennessy.

Oklahoma City Paper Assails Military Rule by Governor

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok.,
Sept. 17.
An editorial printed this morning in the Daily Oklahoman has raised the question of whether Governor Walton will not attempt to censor that newspaper.
The editorial reads:
"Slammed—Peaceful Oklahoma awakened Sunday under military rule.
"At midnight in Oklahoma City on streets where a machine gun squad might have turned a Browning loose without hitting a soul, absolute martial law became effective.
"From Hell Gate to the Golden Gate this morning the black type on the front page of the nation's newspapers assailed the name of Oklahoma with the executive indictment of rebellion, riot and insurrection.
"This unjustified shame must be suffered in silence, while Governor Walton rides his anti-klan warhorse to the end of the road.
Every citizen, regardless of his own feelings as to the justice of the action, should give the military complete co-operation.
None save legal means should be considered to test any act of the State troops. Citizens should submit to arrest and detention meekly, but put wheels in motion to test the inalienable right to the writ of Habeas corpus whenever the situation warrants.
Governor Walton cannot suspend the Constitution, regardless of his boast.
"Let this fact be repeated—
The Daily Oklahoman toots no horn for the Ku Klux Klan. For two years the Daily Oklahoman has hammered at the mask. Every effort of officers to check whippings and punish whippers has been applauded. The Governor's ambition is a much desired end, but he has no more right to suspend the privileges of citizenship, written in the very basic law of this Commonwealth, than masked men have to inflict a penalty with a split strap.
"Gov. Walton's long suit is the making of wild statements.
He said at Tulsa that Oklahoma County is the worst county of the State in lawlessness. He accuses Oklahoma City of whippings and cuttings that have never seen the light of day. Let him prove his loose talk or let the label against Oklahoma City last on the lips of its citizens after this military mania has passed.
"The Governor has threatened the members of the Legislature with arrest if they dare try to convene, he has demanded the discharge from public office of county and city officials without a trial by jury and now he threatens the whole membership of a lodge with the bayonet if the lodgemen do not disband.
"The public should not take martial law too seriously.
To the nation, the situation sounds dreadful, but here at home if you will forget the threats and quit wondering what will happen next, you probably never will know that the civil law has abdicated in favor of the military.
regardless of the Constitution.
"The law is one thing and the militia is another.
"We have the militia."

Two Tribunals, One at State Capital and Other at Tul- sa, Begin Work—Control of Police Force in Okla- homa City Is Relinquished by Troops.

By the Associated Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Sept. 17.
—Inquiries into activities of the Ku Klux Klan of Oklahoma were begun today by military courts in Oklahoma City and Tulsa, where military rule is in full force, following Gov.
Walton's proclamation of midnight Saturday, extending military rule to the entire State.
The first witness summoned, 58-year-old Oklahoma City military commander was Campbell Russell, former chairman of the Corporation Commission.
The State headquarters of the Klan was removed today from Oklahoma City. Records, files and membership books of the Klan disappeared and are authoritatively reported to have been taken outside the State. The removal anticipated a raid on the headquarters by the Governor's military force, it was reported at military headquarters.
N. C. Jewett, said to be "grand dragon" of the Oklahoma Klan, refused to make a statement to newspaper men today.
The State Capitol is surrounded by national guardsmen, soldiers with bayonets fixed guarding entrances to the Senate and House of Representatives halls to prevent an assembly of legislators without a call from the Governor.
Members of the military court here are Col. William A. Gravenhorst, field artillery, president; Louis
Col. Paul A. Walker, judge advocate general; Maj. Lewis A. Ledbetter, 180th Infantry; Maj. Lowery H.
Harrell, 180th field artillery; Capt.
John Amick, 180th field artillery;
and Lieut. Stanley Williams, 180th field artillery. Headquarters have been established in a downtown hotel.
Civil Courts in Session.
Russell, it was said, was called preliminary to the actual opening of an investigation into alleged flag shipping outrages, and while the inquiry is expected to be in full force tomorrow.
Civil courts throughout the State are in session.
This afternoon the Police Department of this city, which had been taken over by the military late yesterday, was returned to the control of civil authorities. This action followed a notice served by Mayor Cas-sill on Col. W. S. Key, military commander in charge of the city, that unless Ray Foster, chief of police, were reinstated at once, the entire police force would be retired by the city and the task of policing the city would be left in the hands of the military.
Every Crosses Unmolested.
Gov. Walton's order declaring the entire State under military rule is to prevent the Legislature from convening, to consider his impeachment, and to prevent a session of the grand jury, scheduled for today in Oklahoma City, accomplished everything here last night except the suppression of the Ku Klux Klan.
Two fiery crosses, electrically lighted, flamed in the downtown section of the State capital with no effort on the part of military authorities to suppress them.
The Governor's use of the military power of the State against the Klan has been extended further than the detention and suppression of Klan shipping outrages, and while there is reason to believe that the order extending the military rule from Tulsa, where it has been in force for a month, to the entire State is a part of the fight on the Klan, it is a fact that there has been no disorder in Tulsa and no specific accusation that civil authorities were failing to enforce the law.
So far as can be ascertained, the

NEW REGIME IN SPAIN TO EXPEL 31 POLITICIANS

List Includes Former Premier Guerra and Prominent Liberals and Catalinist Syndicalists.

LEADERS OF ALL THE PARTIES IGNORED

Former Minister of Finance, on Way to France, Stopped at Border Until Status Is Decided Upon.

MADRID, Sept. 17.—Although suffering from a bad cold which confined him to his room yesterday, King Alfonso has signed several decrees of importance, including one dealing with the dissolution of Parliament. Another decree orders all employees of the Government offices to be at their posts punctually at 9 a. m. and remain until 2 p. m. Strangers are forbidden access to the offices. Another decree dismisses all the civil Governors and confirms the proclamation of martial law throughout the country. The new head of the Government, Captain-General Primo Rivera, has invited all the managers, editors of the newspapers and news agencies to a meeting at the ministry of war at which he will explain the workings of the censorship.

Party Leaders Plan Action. The political leaders have recovered somewhat from the terrific blow inflicted upon them by the military coup d'état, and reports are current that prominent politicians of the various factions have started conspiracies against the military leaders now in control. Not only the liberal and radical parties but even the conservatives are dissatisfied with the military rule, which takes the entire machinery out of their hands and makes them impotent in their provincial districts where they hitherto had everything their own way in connection with the elections and appointment of political positions—a condition which has been described as one of Spain's greatest evils.

Count Romanones, the former Premier, is understood to be extremely disappointed with the turn of affairs, although he is a great friend of King Alfonso, and has been rather in favor of military action in Morocco.

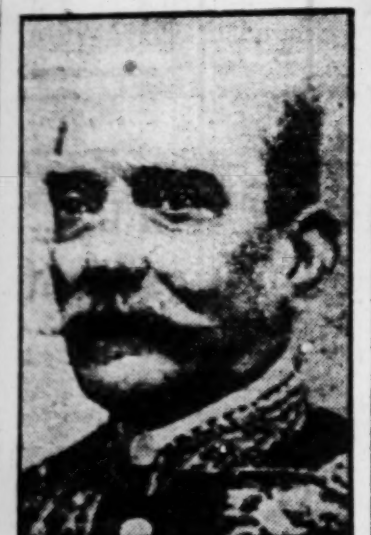

Alba Fled at Once. Santiago Alba, who held the portfolio of Foreign Affairs at the time of the coup, and who is widely regarded as a most capable political strategist, sped across the frontier immediately after the revolt got under way, and is understood to be awaiting time for action. Alba is said to have obtained possession of a number of extremely important documents connected with the whole of the recent military and political actions of Spain in Morocco, implicating some high placed personages in charges of double dealing.

By the Associated Press. PORT VENDRES, Franco-Spanish frontier, Sept. 17.—The military dictatorship formed as the result of last week's revolution has decided to expel 31 of Spain's leading politicians, including former Premier Sanchez Guerra and several prominent liberals and Catalinist syndicalists. It is learned from advices coming over the border. The expulsions will occur this week.

The military regime is refusing to have anything whatever to do with politicians of all parties. Senor Ventosa, former Spanish Minister of Finance in several cabinets, who arrived on his way to France aboard the Barcelona-Paris Express, was stopped by the Spanish police at the frontier station near here and informed that he must remain in Spain until the new regime had decided upon his status.

ment. No disturbances and little excitement have been caused by the establishment of the new military regime and the publication of decrees by the new Government. For the present, Gen. Primo Rivera is the only responsible Minister. He has the power to publish decrees, which thereby become laws. As the country now is governed by a military dictatorship, Primo Rivera's title appears to be president of the military dictatorship. Instead of president of the Council of Ministers. The Foreign Ministry and Ministry of War will be retained by the military. The other ministries and sub-secretariats have been suppressed. The various departments will be under control of a higher Government official to be chosen by seniority. He must, however, submit all matters to the president of the dictatorship for decision.

The military dictatorship will begin rigid economies in the national expenses but without prejudicing the functions of the Government. The Government, Primo Rivera declares, will propose and develop a policy of security, regarded as indispensable for the welfare of the country. He has also appealed to the various political parties to unite in their provincial districts where they hitherto had everything their own way in connection with the elections and appointment of political positions—a condition which has been described as one of Spain's greatest evils.

Count Romanones, the former Premier, is understood to be extremely disappointed with the turn of affairs, although he is a great friend of King Alfonso, and has been rather in favor of military action in Morocco.

STRESEMANN PLANNING TO MAINTAIN POWER WITH IRON HAND

German Chancellor Planning to Stave Off Overthrow by Stealing the Extremist Thunder.

By SAMUEL SPEWACK. A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. Copyright, 1923.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—Terror seems to be on its way in the Reich. The first steps were taken with an announcement of prison sentences for tax evaders. The executioner's bullet apparently is next on the program. The Post-Dispatch and New York World correspondents in a position to state that Chancellor Stresemann feels that the only way to cling to power within while making peace without is to adopt the tactics of the Bolshevik and Fascist extremists and to maintain power with an iron hand and an iron heel. He believes that his successors, if they want to stay, must rule by force, and he sees no reason why he cannot stave off a violent overthrow by stealing the extremist thunder and assuming complete dictatorial powers.

Lord Robert Cecil said the council had done everything it should have done in the Greco-Italian controversy and had set upon every means to obtain a settlement. Lord Robert admitted that the question of the league's competency, which had been raised by Italy, was grave and could not be left unsettled. He appealed to the league and to Italy to reach a solution which would not infringe the national pride of Italy and at the same time would leave unimpaired the authority of the league, upon which to a great extent he saw the future hopes of the world were centered.

How Question Was Brought Up. The debate on the issue on the league's competency began with the introduction of a resolution, which was later adopted, providing that the council would formally acknowledge the last communication from the conference of ambassadors concerning the terms of settlement of the Greco-Italian conflict and add the words:

"As this dispute, which was submitted to the council by the Greek Government, gave rise to diplomatic negotiations conducted by the conference of ambassadors, the council considered its duty was to establish relations with the conference in order to assist in the work of pacification."

The council also said it took note of the ambassadors' action and welcomed the fact that the action ended a situation which had aroused intense anxiety.

Despite the fact that the meeting was not announced as public, a big crowd was present when Mr. Branting considered his duty was to establish relations with the conference in order to assist in the work of pacification.

Both parties to the dispute had made concessions and the permanent Court of International Justice, which was created by the league, would play a role in the question of indemnity. But he pointed out, one party to the dispute had denied the competence of the league.

Peoples of World Interested. It was true that the council had not supported the Italian viewpoint of the dispute, but he pointed out, one party to the dispute had denied the competence of the league.

COUNCIL OF LEAGUE DEBATES QUESTION OF COMPETENCY

Precipitated by Resolution to Acknowledge Report of Ambassadors on Greco-Italian Dispute.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, Sept. 17.—Discussion in the council of the League of Nations of the question of the league's competency in the dispute between Italy and Greece was postponed until tomorrow after speeches today by Signor Salandra and M. Poincaré, the representatives respectively of Italy and Greece. When the meeting opened H. J. Almar Branting, Swedish Minister of Foreign Affairs, declared the Italian occupation of Corfu was contrary to the provisions of the league covenant and might establish a dangerous precedent, affecting the prestige of the league.

Lord Robert Cecil said the council had done everything it should have done in the Greco-Italian controversy and had set upon every means to obtain a settlement. FIRST REFUGEES TO REACH AMERICA DESCRIBE JAPANESE QUAKE HORRORS

Destruction of Great Naval Base at Yokohama Like a Volcano in Eruption, Decease Westinghouse Manager, on Arrival at Seattle.

By the Associated Press. SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 17.—A deep rumbling, the earth buckled as a coach in a train would buckle in a collision, buildings were rent asunder as if struck with a monster invisible ax, less substantial ones crumbled like a cracker squeezed in the hand. In an instant flames burst from thousands of homes in scattered parts of a once great city and thousands of lives were snuffed out.

This is the way the earthquake disaster in Japan appeared to a traveler aboard a ship in Yokohama harbor. The first of the refugees of the tragedy to arrive in America landed in Seattle late Saturday night, when the relief ship President Jefferson of the Admiral-Orinental Line brought more than 200 scores of the passengers on the Jefferson walked from Yokohama to Tokyo and boarded the relief ship.

The earth seemed to thrill, this was the expression of several witnesses. Flying brands of fire would burn the loose clothing from fleeing persons while they thought the heat of their own burning clothing was the blast from the cauldron of burning buildings on all sides of the earthquake. He saw a mechanical engineer, employed by the Combustion Engineering Corporation, New York, was in Yokohama when the shock came.

Bodies Burned to Wires. "Buildings about me began to topple. I sought shelter in a doorway. In an instant I realized the open would be safer. I started for it and falling electrical poles struck me a glancing blow and knocked me down. I saw whole buildings falling. The earth seemed to quiver for many minutes."

I made my way out of the city. As I passed in sight of the bluff the section of the city given over to foreign use, I saw the Japanese flag flying from the top of the hill. I walked to Tokyo, about 20 miles away. I saw in the open spaces along the roads great crevices in the earth. One crack, about three feet deep, ran down the middle of the road. I saw the bottom of it. I traced for a half a mile. Inside the city of Tokyo I saw the bodies of many persons burned to the wires where they had fallen on live power wires.

W. G. Kaylor, manager in the Orient for the Westinghouse Air Brake Co., declared that after the disaster there were no people apparently alive in Yokohama, with a population of 450,000, except those who had huddled in the main park of the city.

Kaylor was in the lounge of the Grand Hotel when the first quake struck. He saw the building falling all realizing that the outside walls of the building would protect him. A friend, E. Waugh of Yokohama, who also was sitting in the lounge, said he saw the middle of the room and Kaylor felt certain he would be killed. Kaylor escaped as if by a miracle while the building fell in ruins about him. The debris was held up around the outside wall, which was kind of a balcony. Kaylor was safe. When he got on board the Jefferson he found his friend Waugh, who had escaped and who thought him dead. Waugh also had crawled through the ruins of the hotel.

Building Thrown Into Air. Destruction of the great Yokohama naval base was described by Kaylor as being like a volcano in eruption. "The naval base, with its huge stores of explosives, started to explode in the afternoon of Sept. 1, and it continued to blow up like a volcano," he said. "All the enormous tongues of flame shot into the air and the buildings were thrown up into the sky as if coming out of a flaming crater. There were 70,000 troops there and most of them must have been killed."

Enrique Espino of the Argentine consulate in Tokyo traveled three days through the stricken country before getting into the middle of the horror. He said he saw the bridge in Yokohama I found strewn with the false black hair that Japanese women all wear," he said. "In the water below hundreds of bodies were floating. Beside the bridge the street was strewn with charred bodies, all naked and with the hair burned from them. They were exactly like black jade statues, perfectly preserved but blackened by the terrific heat."

LINER'S OFFICERS TELL HOW QUAKE CHANGED YOKOHAMA HARBOR

By the Associated Press. SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 17.—Officers of the Admiral-Orinental Line, which brought the first Japanese earthquake refugees to America yesterday, described the changed aspect of Yokohama Harbor after the earthquake. The harbor was destroyed. Channels were cut in the bottom and anchors were so deep in deep water that they were so unavailing even to shallow-draft vessels.

Yokohama hotel when the quake came.

Six Survivors Rushed to Hospitals on Arrival at Seattle. SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 17.—Six survivors of the Yokohama earthquake, suffering severe injuries and shock as a result of their experience, were rushed to hospitals here yesterday upon their arrival aboard the Admiral-Orinental. Approximately 25 others less seriously hurt were cared for in their rooms at hotels. The more seriously injured, include:

Mrs. G. W. Glendon, 1704 Fourth avenue, Richmond, Va., crushed leg, amputation probably necessary, condition serious. Gaston Debern, son of Prince Debern, counselor of the French Embassy at Tokyo, fractured vertebrae, condition serious. The Jefferson, 10 days out from Yokohama, arrived at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, but it was four hours later before the passengers began to disembark.

Few had been able to save any of their personal belongings as they hurried from the stricken Japanese city. Many were boarded garments when they left the Jefferson yesterday. Members of the vessel crew generously loaned clothing to those who had escaped in only scanty attire and in addition gave up their birth and slept where they could.

300,000 Received by Refugees. Within a few hours after the Jefferson's arrival telegraph companies had delivered money transfers for the refugees in the amount of $50,000. Messages to the refugees poured in by the scores.

Fifteen days after the greatest disaster in recent history the men and women who lived it and suffered it, watched the cities of Japan raised by earthquake, telephone and fire were unable to give any comprehensive picture of the destruction. It was too sudden, too violent, too terrible. Their pictures were the personal ones—a husband and wife, a mother and child, a child lost somewhere in the blazing mass of Yokohama, the crumbling of great buildings into heaps of twisted materials.

It was havoc, but the survivors of it had no cross sections. They knew that thousands had died, that there was heroism and self-sacrifice and murder and robbery, but they knew, nothing of the whole, only the part. The destruction of the Japanese city, the survivors related, was preceded by electrical disturbances that lighted the city brilliantly at night, hot, humid days and an atmosphere almost stifling. On the morning of Sept. 1, the sun rose hot and brilliant.

First Shock Came at Noon. The first tremor came an instant before the booming of the cannon that marked noon. It was a perpendicular shock, violent and destructive. The city was a horizontal quake and the landscape was changed in an instant to one of desolation. Miss Anna Jeffery, principal of the foreign school at Tokyo, described the destruction of her school. "It was quiet except for a truck that rumbled over the pavement past our door. Then came two shocks in quick succession, just as the noon gun sounded. Houses tumbled down like cards. Our school was destroyed and I barely escaped with my life. One of our teachers was crushed to death. Luckily none of our 75 pupils were there."

Almost instantly the fires started. Men and women rushed about aimlessly. I saw many killed by falling walls. Others were burned to death. "It was ghastly," Miss Jeffery escaped to a park and was later rescued by the crew of a British vessel in the harbor. Mrs. Bertha Vest of New York City, hurrying to safety, saw one of the employees of the Y. M. C. A. at Yokohama imprisoned, tightly in the wreckage of the ruined building. His leg had been crushed, she said, and blood poisoning had set in. He begged piteously for release and finally his friends, frantically trying to aid him, attempted to amputate his leg with a pocket knife. He died a few moments later from loss of blood.

Former Policeman and an Indian Tell of Shooting Former State Senator.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—The murder of W. Wallace Greene, former State Senator, has been solved, according to the police, who say Ross R. Richardson, former policeman, confessed the crime yesterday at Police Headquarters. Following the signing of their confessions, Richardson and Ryan were taken to the Greene home, where they re-enacted the killing before Police Commissioners, C. A. Burman and William G. Lynch, prosecutors and a reporter. A charge of murder in the first degree will be filed in the Criminal Court against the two men, Burrey said. A third man, they implicated in the murder has not been arrested.

The mystery had puzzled the police since the night of June 28, when Greene was shot in the garage beneath his home. Richardson had confessed to numerous holdups and had been partly identified by Mrs. Greene as the man who shot her husband. Until yesterday, however, he had maintained that he had no part in the murder.

Woman's Remark Overheard. A chance remark made by a woman of the streets was responsible for the confessions. "If the police arrest the 'Chief' it means the end for Ross," this woman had said. Ryan, known in Kansas City as a underworld as "the Chief," was arrested last Tuesday night. Greene was shot while attempting to close door to his garage. Richardson said in his confession, "I ordered him to put his hands up. When he didn't pay any attention to me I thrust my revolver through the window and fired. I saw in the paper that Senator Wallace Greene had been murdered and I immediately knew he was the man that I had shot the night before."

Identified as Robber. Richardson had been identified by 15 persons as the man who robbed them at different places. The understanding fact of the robbery was the striking of a 4-year-old child, which killed the mouth intermittently for two days due to the blow. Richardson was dropped from the police department in May, 1922, because he applied for a position on a truck. Commissioner Oppenheimer said today.

Six Kansas City policemen and detectives will split the $5000 reward offered for the murderer of Senator Greene.

ADVERTISING CLEANUP PLANNED. By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—Many of the most prominent advertising men in the country are here for the four-day convention of the Better Business Bureau, under the auspices of the Associated Clubs of the World.

Plans to eliminate untruthful advertising of furs, furniture and jewelry will be considered at the meetings. A plan to secure co-operation and simultaneous closing of the doors of retail mercantile fields also is scheduled to be passed upon by the convention.

Yamashita Cho, Yokohama, raising the crowd yesterday was handled. Entrance to the field is at present confined to one small gate, near the northwest corner, and this likely will be restricted "soon" during the meeting, for the use of the entrance will be provided during the meeting, including five on Natural Bridge road. There are now two big searchlights for assistance to night flyers in the field and advertising the meet. The Chanute Field detachment has brought the field detachment here, which was tried out first Saturday night, making its huge beam visible in the city, was taken to a hill near the field last night and again raised perfectly.

Additional arrivals of flyers are expected today, and it is thought that all contestants will be complete in the On-to-St. Louis race. Charles Fowler of Macon, Mo., an entrant in this race, flew to the field yesterday to look over the ground. He plans to bring four passengers. Navy contestants and planes are expected to begin arriving Wednesday.

PHOTOGRAPHIC UNIT ARRIVES AT FIELD FOR THE AIR MEET

Men Make Their Camp Grounds—"Mosaic Map" to Be Made in Advance Races.

STUNT FLYING SEEN BY ABOUT 5000

United Railways Begins Operation of New Loop on Bridgeton Line—Through Service During Meeting Promised.

A unit of the Army Air Service, which arrived at St. Louis Field yesterday afternoon for the International Air Meet, which will begin two weeks from today and last three days, will have the chief purpose of taking the official photographs of the meet. Arrival of this unit, the Sixth Division of the service, comprising the Fifteenth Observation Squadron and the Fifth Photographic Section, was one of the attractions to a crowd of spectators estimated at 5000, which also watched stunt flying by army and other aviators.

The Sixth Division numbers 101 enlisted men and five officers. The commander, Capt. Ernest Clark, and two officers will remain at the field from the division's station, Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., Saturday, and thence to St. Louis Field yesterday. The remainder of the division started Friday in 18 army trucks and arrived at 3 p. m. yesterday. The men immediately made camp on the grounds, setting up 14 squad tents, near Bridgeton Station road.

To Make "Mosaic Map." Two of the trucks are for developing and printing photographs, respectively, and a third supplies these with electric light. Ten of the men are photographic experts. In advance of the meet the unit will make a "mosaic map" or aerial photograph of the field and surrounding area, which will be used for the 30-mile triangular course for the races.

The officers who flew here are to return soon to Chanute Field and make more planes here. One flyer who attracted much attention yesterday was Maj. M. F. Scanlon, with his Vought racing plane. Lieut. B. R. Holcombe of the navy eventually borrowed this craft and gave a thrilling show of how the racer will turn around the sharp corners of the course, one of which is at St. Louis Field, flying close to earth at great speed. Nearly all of the 17 planes now at the field were in the air at one time or another during the day.

Operation of New Loop. The United Railways began operation of a new loop on its Bridgeton line, to the field, yesterday. Announcement has been made that through service from Fourth street, downtown to the field, on double track, will be maintained during the meet.

Air Board officers have expressed gratification at the public interest exhibited and the ease with which the crowd yesterday was handled. Entrance to the field is at present confined to one small gate, near the northwest corner, and this likely will be restricted "soon" during the meeting, for the use of the entrance will be provided during the meeting, including five on Natural Bridge road. Dandruff Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't. It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to destroy it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

THOUSANDS VIEW BODY OF NOTORIOUS BAD MAN

"Al" Spencer, Oklahoma Bandit, Slain Saturday Night by Posse in Exchange of Shots.

By the Associated Press. BARTLESVILLE, Ok., Sept. 17.—Several thousands persons crowded through an undertaking parlor here yesterday for a glimpse of Oklahoma's notorious bad man, "Al" Spencer, who fell in open battle with a posse, 10 miles north of Bartlesville, Saturday night. Three bullets in the right side fired by members of the posse killed the 30,000 fugitive bandit instantly.

Spencer began hostilities when he leveled his rifle and fired at six pursuing officers, led by Alva McDonald, United States Marshal for Western Oklahoma. The bullet missed. It was Spencer's answer to a command from McDonald to halt. Every member of the posse fired in return. Spencer pitched far into soft mud. Three of the bullets had found their mark.

Concealed within the old overalls and yellow shirt which Spencer wore was found $10,000 in bonds, according to McDonald, after members had searched their long-sought victim. The bonds were identified as loot taken at Okesa, Ok., Aug. 20, when a Missouri-Kansas-Texas train was robbed shortly after midnight. The Okesa robbery resulted in a $10,000 reward being offered for the capture dead or alive of Al Spencer. No one had appeared to claim the body of the man who is credited with the robbery of at least 25 banks in Oklahoma and Southern Kansas. The body will be held for two days for any relatives who may appear. If no one calls, it is planned to bury Spencer in Bartlesville.

Four pals of the dead bandit are still at large and warrants for their arrest are in the hands of the leader of the posse which captured Spencer. "I will camp on their trail until they are arrested," Marshal McDonald declared last night. Spencer's revolver, which is declared to "look like a washboard" because of its notches was not found when he was searched, according to McDonald. Spencer was carrying a fairly new rifle and a new six shooting revolver at the time of his death.

Lu Gaston, Bartlesville Chief of Police, and E. L. Adamson, postal inspector, were members of McDonald's posse. The others were Deputy Marshals.

276,822,000 BUSHELS OF GRAIN GROWN IN MISSOURI THIS YEAR

Corn Crop Much Larger Than in 1922 and Wheat Is Somewhat Heavier.

By the Associated Press. JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 17.—Missouri grain production is 276,822,000 bushels this year, as compared to 222,092,000 last year, according to a report today from the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service. Winter wheat is reported as a little better than last year—39,880,000, as against 38,750,000 bushels. Spring wheat shows an increased production of only 1000 bushels over 1922—68,000,000, compared to 67,000,000.

The oat production is considerably better with 22,382,000 bushels, as against 17,872,000 last year.

There was a much larger corn crop this year, the report shows, especially in the best corn producing regions. The September yield is estimated at 204,352,000 as against 175,275,000 last year.

Oriental Rugs

A Large Special Purchase Brings the Best Oriental Rug Values in Years — Savings of

BOK ANNOUNCES 8 YEARLY AWARDS IN ADVERTISING WORK

Gold Medal and $8500 in Cash Prizes to Be Distributed in United States and Canada.

UNDER DIRECTION OF HARVARD SCHOOL

Would Encourage Merit in Advertising as One of the Most Important Factors in Modern Life.

In the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Edward W. Bok has founded a series of eight annual awards for the best newspaper and periodical advertising in the United States and Canada, according to an announcement made today by Dean Wallace B. Donham of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. The awards will consist of a gold medal and $8,500 in cash prizes and will be known as the Harvard Advertising Awards to be administered by the Harvard Business School.

The awards are offered by Bok to encourage merit and stimulate improvement in advertising as one of the most important forces in modern life. To the end that truth shall be recognized as the factor of most practical value in advertising, the jury is instructed to lay particular stress on accuracy and fair statement. The juries of award will be appointed each year by the Dean of the Harvard Business School from among experienced business and professional men who are considered especially fitted to serve as judges. It is the hope that the ablest men in the advertising field may now receive through the Harvard awards similar recognition to that given by the Pulitzer prizes in the kindred fields of journalism and letters.

Three Classifications.
For the year October, 1922, to October, 1924, the eight awards will be made under three classifications: for distinguished personal service; for the planning and research of advertising campaigns; and for distinguished individual advertisements in newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and Canada.

Under the first classification, the jury of award will grant each year the Harvard Advertising Gold Medal for Distinguished Personal Service to the individual deemed to have done the most during the year to raise the standards of advertising. Another $1500 prize will be for a local campaign. This award will be for the advertising campaign of the year deemed most conspicuous for the excellence of its planning and execution seeking publicity in a single locality or for a relatively limited territory either for products or for an institution. The third $1500 prize will be for scientific research in advertising for the year adjudged most conspicuous because it has either: (A) brought about economy or secured efficiency in advertising by producing information of general value in furthering the knowledge and science of advertising; or (B) has reduced or precluded unwise and wasteful expenditure in a specific advertising program.

Individual Advertisements.
The third classification, "for distinguished individual advertisements," carries four Harvard awards of $1500 each, for excellence in the technique or substance of particular advertisements appearing during the year in established American or Canadian newspapers or periodicals. These four prizes will be awarded: 1. For the advertisement most effective in its use of English. 2. For the advertisement most effectively accomplishing its purpose in a few words, with or without illustration. 3. For the advertisement most effective in its use of typography and illustration. 4. For the advertisement most effective in its use of any class of pictorial illustration.

In a forthcoming article in the Atlantic Monthly, Bok, in explaining his reasons for founding these awards, says in part: "Now, with returning prosperity, the volume of advertising is again all we face the astounding fact that $1,000,000,000 is spent on advertising in one year, divided according to the plausible figures of

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Rev. McGehee's Veracity.

THE Right Rev. Dr. Hehee, abetted and assisted by the Right Rev. Hot Craw, two young 100 per cent un-American, are engaged in the small task of driving from our country 20,000,000 Catholics, putting rings in the noses and segregating 10,000,000 negro Americans and circumcising the right to hold offices of emolument and honor of 5,000,000 Jews.

They are asking that 40,000,000 naturalized immigrants and their immediate descendants buy reserved seats for the medieval celebration in 1924, when Hehee and Hot Craw, seated on both arms of a fiery cross, illuminated by the Union Electric Light and Power Co., shall proclaim the triumph of the invisible government over the constituted authorities of our poor little United States of America.

It seems that, not content with this program of emasculation, machination and mummery, the Right Rev. Dr. Hehee was admonished by the presiding bishop of the Methodist Church of Missouri to sustain from using the house of God as a circus where performing clowns, dressed in mother-hubbards, were putting on a show for which $10 admission was charged.

Surrounded by disciples of the High Kyoodle of Atlanta and Worshipful Puppilites of lesser degree, it has been the custom of the Rev. Hehee and the Rev. Hot Craw to jump in the air, kick their heels together and defy 20,000,000 Catholics, 10,000,000 negroes, 5,000,000 Jews and 40,000,000 foreign born and descendants of foreign-born parents. This unbecoming and terrible defile to 35,000,000 American citizens being unanswered, the Rev. Hehee sought to take over and direct the affairs of the Methodist Church, to discipline the bishop and control his wayward conduct.

The bishop, being a Christian gentleman and having been selected for his high office by the votes of the leading Methodist ministers of this State, naturally resented the threats of the Rev. Hehee and his disciples. So the Rev. Hehee and his disciples should choose between Christianity and the Constitution on the one side, and the mother Hubbard, the fiery cross and the $10 bill on the other. This the Rev. Hehee refused to do.

The bishop remained firm. Thereupon the Rev. Hehee became vociferous and threatened the bishop. Much to the astonishment of the Rev. Hehee, according to his own statement, the bishop first called him a liar and then punched him in the jaw. The bishop, being a man of peace who found his greatest strength in moral suasion, apparently did not have back of the punch, the moving power of a Sullivan, Jeffries or Dempsey. This was unfortunate. The whole community wished more power to the bishop both in his high moral courage and in his good right arm.

The Rev. Hehee suffered more from wounded vanity than from physical pain, and he therefore applied for a warrant for the arrest of the presiding bishop of the Methodist Church, purporting to hale him into court with craphooters, prostitutes and thieves so that the High Kyoodle and the other kyoodles might have their dignity restored.

All of this is merely introductory to the inquiry as to whether the bishop was right when he said that the Rev. Hehee was a "liar." To have made such a statement the bishop must have indisputable proof in his possession. However, the morning paper reports that the Rev. Hehee last night at North St. Louis Turner Hall made the following statements:

1. That there were 75 Ku Kluxers in the United States House of Representatives.

2. Sixteen in the Senate of the United States.

3. Several in the President's Cabinet.

4. That Henry Ford is a Ku Kluxer.

These four statements present four distinct issues of the veracity of the Rev. Hehee.

The bishop must have been right on other matters, and if your paper wants to raise the question of veracity and support the bishop, why not ask the Rev. Hehee to name the Senators, Congressmen and Cabinet officers who are members of the Klan? He can't do it. Instead of pelting the Turner Hall in North St. Louis, may I respectfully suggest that the next revival held by Hehee and Hot Craw be conducted in the dog pound?

PROOF FOR THE BISHOP.

Protests Street—Costs.

THE granite blocks on South Broadway were taken up, broken in two, and half were used and the other half hauled away. For breaking the blocks and putting them back a tax of $18.25 per front foot is charged. There was no new curbing used. If this charge is not a hold and a snarl, then bank robbery is honorable. We poor people with 25 feet front are asked to pay $454. This will cause us to lose our properties. Broadway was in fine condition—no holes anywhere, but not smooth for fast driving. See what you can do for us.

AN OLD-TIME READER.

GOV. WALTON'S METHODS.

Gov. Walton of Oklahoma would do better in his fight against lynching and official lawlessness due to the criminal activities of the Ku Klux Klan, if there were less of the swashbuckler in his methods, less of the personal issue and greater care in the observance of constitutional limits.

Whether the Governor is justified in putting the whole State under martial law and taking extreme military measures to put the Klan out of the State is a matter that cannot be judged from a distance, but we do not believe he was justified in his press censorship. A public official who is fighting for law and order and the rights and liberties of the people under the Constitution and the laws should be exceedingly careful to respect and protect the rights of all citizens, whether he thinks their opinions and conduct are wrong or not. The klansmen have as much right to express their opinion, so long as they do not counsel violence and lawlessness, as other citizens. The Governor gives them an advantage to which they are not entitled when he attempts to suppress their actual rights. It is their wrongs, expressed in lynching and lawless violence, that he should put down.

The issue of law and order against lawless masked government which Gov. Walton has raised is a great issue which must be settled whenever and wherever it arises. It must be settled right. It must be settled in favor of constitutional government and its orderly processes. But official lawlessness on the part of those who are fighting the criminal activities of "invisible government" is even worse than lawlessness, official or otherwise, under the prompting and control of "invisible government."

Constitution day reminds us of the sacredness of those rights and liberties guaranteed to all citizens irrespective of color, race or religion, which are the soul of constitutional government. They are the bulwark of our Republican institutions, and if they are weakened, the whole structure is undermined. If they do not stand in exigencies which may arise when the temptation is strong to take extreme and unlawful measures against lawless elements, their force and effect are broken down.

Being right in his main issue, Gov. Walton should see to it that he is right in his methods and that the issue is bigger than any personal interest that may be involved. He should set an example of restraint and of lawful procedure which may be followed with success in other states where similar lawlessness is rife and where the Klan has gained or is seeking control of the visible government to carry out its intolerant and lawless purposes.

The outcome of the issue rests with the people of Oklahoma and the people of other states where similar conditions exist. They must decide in the end whether they shall be governed by the Constitution and the laws, or by a masked organization which spurns both.

RACE PROBLEM IN JOHNSTOWN.

Grasping the nettle and taking the bull by the horns appear to be child's play to Mayor Joseph Caulfield, of Johnstown, Pa., who has notified all negroes who have resided in that city less than seven years to get out, has forbidden any others to settle there, and forbidden negroes from holding any public gatherings or assembling in numbers except to go to church.

The American Civil Liberties Union is asking Mayor Caulfield by what authority he has taken these drastic steps. And the country will watch with interest the outcome of this attempt to solve a most difficult problem by the mere use of executive and police power. It is a dangerous experiment, sure to arouse a worse feeling between the races than would otherwise exist. It will undoubtedly be carried into the courts, which must hold such action unconstitutional, if the Constitution is to stand.

Invasion of personal and constitutional rights.

THE LATEST ADDITION TO THE FORCE.

—From the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

appears to be the order of the day. And to safeguard these rights Americans will be compelled to disregard even such a vital thing as color. For their own sakes, the strong must help the weak, or both will go down to ruin.

MORE COUNTER-REVOLUTION.

The present period appears to be one of counter-revolution. The triumph of Fascism in Italy and the overthrow of the agrarian government in Bulgaria are followed by a successful military coup d'etat in Spain. In each case a prudent King has been glad to get on the bandwagon.

Control by a directorate composed of army Generals augurs ill for popular government in Spain. In this particular instance the issues are obscure; at least, they are not clearly understood here. Disaffection with the conduct of the disastrous Moroccan campaign, and complaints of too much politics in the Government, seem to have been the outstanding reasons for the military uprising that routed the ministry. Nevertheless, while it may result in a temporary purifying of the ministerial departments, and a better discipline generally, movements led by army Generals never take much account of the common people. Their slogans are discipline and obedience.

The era of counter-revolution is due, generally, to a reaction against the growth of Socialism, strongly stimulated by the Russian spectacle. But it proves that the conservatives' reverence for constitutional processes is precisely as deep, and less frank, than that of the radicals. When the conservatives cannot maintain their position through constitutional processes, they resort immediately to the avowed method of the radicals—revolution. Thus it was in Italy and Bulgaria; thus it is in Spain. It is a sad fact that many people still believe in representative government only so long as it represents what they want.

PRISONS AS SCHOOLS.

Chaplain Reed of the Ohio Penitentiary has been conducting a correspondence school in that institution for the last 14 months. The experiment has been so successful that the general adoption of the plan seems likely. Many wardens and chaplains have already endorsed it. The Governors of 45 states have approved it. A similar school has been established in the Federal prison at Atlanta. The effort has the backing of a New York publisher who contributes $2500 to every school founded. It is called the Intra-Wall Correspondence School.

Of the 2500 prisoners in the Ohio Penitentiary 1600 are enrolled. The system of instruction is that used by recognized correspondence schools. Of course, a special element must enter into prison education—the sympathetic understanding which can instill hope in hopelessness and fire with ambition men who in many instances have all but quit. The Ohio Penitentiary chaplain seemingly possesses this genius. Whether the plan will work as well where this endowment is lacking may be a question.

In the Ohio prison a rivalry has developed, a morale has been created which would gratify the principal of any school, or any conscientious teacher. When a man in a cell can be heard boasting about getting "95 in arithmetic today" regeneration is at work. There is a future for students of such purpose and training.

Business has subscribed to this plan. Large employers of labor in many sections of the country have agreed to give a job to every Intra-Wall school man properly vouched for. The liberated prisoner, therefore, steps into real liberty, into a real chance to make good.

The idea has been described as "the greatest step forward in prison work in years." The appraisal seems just. In any event the name of Chaplain Reed deserves a place on the roster, along with the names of Tynan, Osborne and others who have helped to debrutalize prisoners.

NO BANANAS.

(In the approved Russian style.)

Characters.

Sonia—a young widow whose soldier husband drank himself to death in a soldierly manner, leaving her a 2-year-old child.

Petrovich—whose scientific learning has baffled Russia's best minds.

Olga—Sonia's aged mother, hence, under the soviet system, the grandmother of Petrovich.

Paul—a young fruit peddler, with a stand in Nevsky Prospekt, whose fiery love is rewarded by Olga.

Michael—the evil one, a policeman, who, enraged at Paul's success with Sonia, takes his revenge by pinching the best fruit off his stand.

Act 1.

The scene is Sonia's efficiency apartment, facing on the Nevsky Prospekt. Olga sits by the window looking out over the Prospekt. Sonia paces the room nervously. There is a famine, and none has tasted food for three weeks. Little Petrovich alone is contented. He sits upright in his crib munching noisily on an ikon.

Sonia (gloomily): There is nothing to eat.

Olga: Nothing.

Sonia: And no prospect of getting anything in this neighborhood.

Olga: A helluva prospekt, I call it. (Cackles hysterically.)

(There is silence for 10 minutes while Sonia recovers from this one. Petrovich's munching grows more terrible.)

Olga (ferociously): Lay off munching that ikon, chit, or I crush thy bloody bones between these teeth!

Petrovich: Nonsense, old woman! Ikon is save Russia!

Olga and Sonia (in unison): God save holy Russia!

Petrovich (continuing): With the help of modern science, of course. Ikon have been shown to be a healthy food and when properly prepared form a most delectable diet, rich in vitamins and red-hot with calories. They are composed of 16 per cent butter fat, insuring the production of pink globules in the blood, which are largely responsible for the formation of red corpuscles. Scientists declare more-over—

Olga and Sonia (in unison): The brat is daft. (They scream to drown him out. Petrovich mumbles beneath the din. Soon they all cease by common agreement. Petrovich resumes his munching and they all concentrate on the problem of obtaining food.)

Sonia (after a long pause): Bananas! Bananas! We shall have bananas, mother! Paul has bananas! Enough for us all! Oh, Paul! Paul! (dashes madly off stage in direction of Paul's fruit stand on the other side of the Prospekt. Olga follows with a wild shriek. Petrovich remains in his crib munching his ikon terribly, ferociously.)

Act 2.

The scene centers around Paul's fruit stand. Paul hovers over his stand in a dejected attitude. He is pitiful to look at. His is a great disappointment. Michael stands at one side with a look of triumph. He carelessly tosses a banana skin to one side, and another, and another. Paul is helpless. A noise is heard off-stage. Olga rushes in ahead of Sonia by two lengths. Paul turns around in terror.

Sonia: Paul! Paul! (they embrace) I am so hungry. Paul! Give me just one banana, just one, Paul, dear!

(Paul becomes rigid. He takes two steps backward. And then one forward. And then one backward again. He takes two more steps forward, putting him where he was before. He seems to be paralyzed.)

Paul: Bananas? Bananas? (Begins to understand.)

Sonia: Yes, Paul, bananas. We have eaten nothing for weeks! We are hungry!

(Paul gropes blindly. He staggers with hand to forehead.)

Paul: Bananas, Sonia?

Michael (with an evil leer): He ain't got none! Ha! Ha! My good gal!

Sonia: What! Paul, is it true? Tell me, Paul!

Paul: It is true. We have no bananas—today! He (pointing to Michael) has eaten them all! (He dies.)

(Sonia dies of grief. Olga dies of hunger. A soviet marching song is heard off-stage and Michael, rushing toward the sound, slips on a banana peel and crushes his skull. There is a long silence. Then a horrible sound floats across the Prospekt. It is Petrovich. He has choked to death on an ikon.)

Music: "Yes, We Have No Bananas." J. A. Curtail.

BOMBAST.

Of unusual interest is the derivation of the word bombast, meaning inflated speech or conduct. In its original meaning the word bombast (Latin bombyx) meant the cotton plant. Its present meaning came to be by way of women's fashions.

In Queen Elizabeth's time it was the custom for women to inflate their costumes by means of cotton wadding. Thus a thin woman acquired, outwardly at least, an appearance of expansion.

This stuffing or lining was usually of cotton. Hence the process itself came to be called bombast. The transition from this physical meaning of stuffing, to the process of inflating one's personality by means of bluster or inflated, grandiloquent or high-sounding speech, was naturally affected.

TAKING THE PLEDGE.

In that time which is now sometimes referred to as "the good old days," Pat and Mike had been imbibing entirely too much. Father Reagan met them on the street and made them promise to go to his house the next day to take the pledge.

Early the next morning Pat met Mike; they linked arms and started for the priest's abode. Their way led them past a saloon.

"Hi, Mike!" said Pat. "What say we step in an' have just wan more before we sign the pledge?"

"Naw," replied Mike. "The Father might smell our breath. Wait till we're comin' back."—Everybody's Magazine.

The only time England can use an Irishman is when he emigrates to America and votes for Free Trade.—Irish Proverb.

To A—

Go, find your peace, and I shall seek my own in realms of nobler thoughts and loftier heights

Than those we reached together—I, alone.

Your shadow fades; the distant, lowly lights the rising mists no longer penetrate. Downward I gaze on darkness, stillness, night!

Grief aways the lonely heart—I hesitate—And slowly turn to climb into the light.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

STABLE AND FLEXIBLE TARIFFS.

FROM the New York Sun.

Representing it is said no fewer than 41 Western states, comes a pithy appeal to President Coolidge in behalf of stable tariff rates as opposed to the flexible schedules which the tariff commission was called into being to provide.

What these producers of sugar and dairy want is protection they can figure on for at least so that they can go on unhampered by uncertainty and unhalted by fear. The policy of the commission "in dignifying by official consideration requests for decreasing rates and in reopening basic schedules on application for a decrease made by those who opposed the rates before the committee of the House and Senate who the present tariff was under consideration" they regard as "detrimental to public welfare and unfair to the producers." The protest is aimed, of course, at nothing less than the whole idea of a flexible tariff, fruit of the marriage between common sense and common need.

But even more surprising than the implied ignorance of something very like a consensus of public opinion on this point is the challenge to the view that the West pays customs rates on goods it requires and can't collect them on what it has to sell. Some Roke is needed to stimulate legibility in behalf of the farmer fallen, as it seems, between two tariff schools.

A DERBY WINNER'S BEER.

FROM the New York Herald.

THE details involved in bringing Papyrus, the English Derby winner, to this country to race our best 3-year-olds are complex. The Jockey Club's representative, Mr. Fitzgerald, took American water and fodder abroad so that the owner of Papyrus, Mr. Irish, might determine whether he would suit his colt. Now it appears that Papyrus drinks beer; not exclusively but to a considerable extent. What can be done? Perhaps the Volstead act was never intended to apply to horses, but it cannot be amended before Oct. 20, when the international race will take place at Belmont Park. It has been suggested that beer might be prescribed for Papyrus, but would the quantity be large enough for his needs? A way out remains. Papyrus comes as the representative of equine England. Let the State Department extend to him the privileges accorded to an Ambassador. Then he can bring his beer with him and be happy. Suppose the beer-drinking horse should defeat Zev, which he never had 4 cent foam upon his head?

COOLIDGE TAKING OATH OF OFFICE.

FROM the Boston Commonwealth Bulletin.

THE nonsensical claim of a sensational newspaper that the oath taken by President Coolidge was not legal raises the question of why such oath is necessary. When a citizen is elected to public office it is customary to put him under a solemn obligation, signifying that he accepts the duties of the office to which he has been elected and promises to perform the duties to the best of his ability. When a citizen is elected to a newly elected Vice-President or Lieutenant Governor, if the obligation does not bind him to perform the duties of the higher office in case of death, or disability of his chief would be a simpler matter to add such a charge. Then, after the death in office of the chief executive officer of the nation or of a State, there would be no need to look for a notary public or justice of the peace to administer a fresh oath, and there would be no chance for a newspaper seeking notoriety by publishing big headlines that the President was sworn in illegally because of some fancied technicality in the form of oath or in the manner in which it was taken.

PLENTY OF LAUGHS IN 'THE FORTUNE HUNTER'

Woodward Players Find Agreeable Medium for Talents in Winchell Smith Comedy.

EVERY little Main Street has its rustic heifer or two waiting to be pursued and pursued to a good-looking, church-going city clerk with acceptable manners who chooses to make himself available—so at times to the Winchell Smith comedy "The Fortune Hunter," which the Woodward Players are presenting at the Empress Theatre this week—and all the fortune seeking young man has to do is pick out the town (any one will do, we are told) get a job there for sake of appearances and let the heifer, facing a future of spinsterhood because of the heartiness of native marriageable material, do the rest.

So it was with this theory of his friend and financial prop that Nathaniel Duncan reluctantly proceeded when reduced to desperation by his employers' disconcerting habit of firing him from every job that the generosity of his friends provided. The end of the first of the play's four acts finds him, after struggling to church a couple of times to get the hang of it, ready to set upon the rodd of conquest.

But, as is the case with most of Winchell Smith's comedies, something unexpected is bound to happen and in this instance what could be more unexpected than that the lovelorn-dispirited Duncan shall fall in love with his small town job—when he got at nothing-a-week or a-half-a-week a bankrupt inventor's drug business.

In Love With Wrong Girl. Being thus in such an abnormal frame of mind it is entirely conceivable that he should fall in love with his employer's winsome daughter instead of the heifer who is pressing him rapidly toward the altar in accordance with his own program. His money getting strategem about to realize too complete a success and he is learning to respond to telephone calls with the quality of voice becoming to a devoted fiancé when the impetuous old druggist turns capitalist by selling an invention for $50,000.

Here is a situation that seems to call for drastic action and Duncan is about to take it, whatever it is, when a jealous suitor drops a little fortune hunting on his own account becomes unconscious of a benefactor and by preferring a false embezzlement charge, delivers him from pending millions.

Such a piece, with its quaint touches, its humor and its pathos, provides an ideal vehicle for a versatile troupe such as the Woodward Players this year comprise and the opening presentation was a full and audience yesterday afternoon, proved, with the exception of a few long waits between acts, stretching the performance over a period of four hours or so, thoroughly agreeable.

Laugh in the Title Role. Alexis Luce, as the gold seeker, Duncan, made a likable loofer, modestly restrained suitor and, at the end, even a capable apothecary.

In the role of the benign and fatherly old druggist, Mr. Luce, was a pathos and none of other, except the subtle technique of J. Raymond Brown, while Hazel Whitmore, as the daughter, handled her part with charming charm. Ann Austin made a good fortune hunter, and a full set was as notable for its completeness as that in the second, was the lack of it.

Comedy, Drama, Music and Dance at the Orpheum.

An unusually meritorious bill at the Orpheum this week includes several high-class acts with a dose of comedy, drama, music and dance.

Blanche Ring, the musical comedy star, has a new batch of songs that are adapted to her long-legged voice, but she fails to get the audience to join in the chorus of her old favorite, "Rings on my fingers, bells on my toes." No one at the theater last night remembered it but a few elderly gentlemen in the sixth row, and they forgotten the tune. Gutz-Rice and sang several bits composed himself, including that one made a hit in the war period, "I Miss You, Pal of Mine."

The dramatic offering was George Nash and Julia Hay. It was to do with a couple of crooks tried to outwit each other. It was a surprise act, the title was "Unexpected," and it would not fair to give away the plot. It was full of thrills and was just a reach an exciting climax with that is where the unexpected happens. Ray Bernie and his band, now in their second season, vaudeville, scored a big success last night's audience. Bernie, handles a violin nearly as well as a piano. Jack McAllen has an original act—skating act and Dragon Mack present a sketch that comes as many laughs as any act on the bill. "Mine, Wink and Daniel Sherman are in a Russian folk dance called the "Village Vagabond." Delroy's the accordion in masterly fashion and there also is a juggling miniature screen comedy which Baby Peggy demonstrates.

175 ROADHOUSE GUESTS ROBBED BY GANG OF TEN MASKED MEN

Gambling Game in Rear of Place Near Springfield, Ill. Also Looted.

By the Associated Press. Springfield, Ill., Sept. 17.—Ten masked men armed with shotguns and revolvers, staged a holdup at the Wayside Inn, a roadhouse, three miles from here, at 4 a. m. yesterday. After robbing approximately 175 patrons and a gambling game in the rear of the place, they escaped with cash and jewelry amounting to $15,000.

Women screamed as four of the men entered the front door, firing a volley of shots. Patrons who rushed toward the rear entrance were met by the other masked men armed with shotguns. One of the men leaped on a counter and leveled his gun at the crowd while the others set about to conduct a thorough search of the patrons. The first "haul" was $4,000, taken from the gambling game. Ordering the crowd to "line up in single file in the rear," the bandits searched each person who was then ordered to pass into the main dance hall where others of the gang stood guard over them. "Billy" Evans, conducting the gambling game, was felled to the floor by one of the gang when he was "too slow" in moving away from the pile of silver dollars on the table.

When the search was completed, the back door was boarded up and patrons were ordered to "stand still and keep your mouths shut." Locking the front door from the outside, the robbers fled.

FIGURES ON GROWTH OF STATE BANKS IN MISSOURI

Assets Increased From $19,493,918 in 1895 to $1,016,000,831 on December 22, Last.

By the Associated Press. Jefferson City, Sept. 17.—State banking institutions in Missouri built their assets from $19,493,918 in 1895 to $1,016,000,831 by Dec. 22, last, according to figures prepared by Frank C. Millsbaugh, State Commissioner of Finance.

The 145 State banks and trust companies under direction of the Missouri Department of Finance constitute the largest number of financial institutions under any State Department in this country. Building and loan organizations, also under Millsbaugh's direction, have grown in assets from $26,252,954 in 1896 to $60,497,795, although the number has decreased in that period from 288 to 201. The decrease in number, according to the Commissioner, occurred in the years before 1915 when Missouri had no adequate supervision over such institutions.

How security selling in this state is being watched by the department is illustrated by Millsbaugh in the fact that last year 59 permits to sell a total of $7,367,208 in stocks and bonds were issued while 58 applicants to sell $6,259,945 were refused and 47 permits to sell $4,670,200 were revoked.

DENY RESPONSIBILITY FOR HIGH PRICES OF ANTHRACITE

Wholesalers Assert Coal Commission Report Is Only a Half Statement of Facts

By the Associated Press. Washington, Sept. 17.—Taking issue with a recent report of the Coal Commission, the American Wholesale Coal Association in a letter yesterday to Chairman Hammond denied that wholesalers were responsible for the high prices of anthracite.

The letter signed by Charles L. Deering, president of the association, said the report which laid responsibility for the prices paid by the consumer last winter to "the speculative 'jobber or wholesaler'" was one-sided and intended to influence public opinion. It added that the wholesale coal business of the whole country was carried on during 1931 on a nominal profit basis of six-tenths of one cent per ton and that the year's business of the Central Western division was handled at a net loss of 2 cents a ton.

"If," Mr. Deering wrote, "the statement of the commission is indicative of the trend of the investigation which it has pleased the commission to conduct into the wholesaling of coal, we are prompted to inquire why this commission, clothed with authority to thoroughly investigate and acting under statutory mandate to determine facts has seen fit to prejudice public opinion by a half statement without accompanying it with the fairer, broader statement that in no whole year under investigation have the profits of the wholesaler reached the 3 per cent allowed under Government ruling."

MARSHAL PETAIN DECORATED AS CULTIVATOR OF GRAPES

French Army Chieflain (Shors in Rough Habit) in His Own Vineyard.

Copyright, 1932, by the Press and Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—When the French heard that President Coolidge's favorite relaxation was milking a cow, they looked about for something better. After some research, they learned that Marshal Petain was such an expert cultivator of grape vines in the south of France that he had just been decorated by the Minister of Agriculture. He is now commander of the Order of Agricultural Merit.

The French are triumphant. Here, they say, is the difference between the two nations. President Coolidge squats beside his milk cans. The great Petain stands up nobly, amid his grapes.

Marshal Petain labors in his own vineyard when he can get away from the Supreme War Council, disguised in a rough linen shirt, baggy trousers and a flapping straw hat, trimming vines and contemplating the ripening grapes. After a hard day, he sips clear wine from his own presses and says he is content. Three years ago, one of the political factions in Paris tried to make him a Senator in order to profit by his reputation and political innocence. The Marshal listened awhile and then thus brusquely dismissed them: "I would as soon plant my standard on a manure heap."

ROOT AND HOUSE ON BOK PEACE PLAN JURY

Wellesley College President Is Only Woman Among Seven Members Named.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The jury of seven which will award the $100,000 prize offered by Edward W. Bok, Philadelphia publisher, for a practical plan whereby the United States may co-operate with other nations to prevent war, was named yesterday by the Policy Committee, which has been administering the award.

In the list appears the name of Elhu Root, who served in the McKinley and Roosevelt Cabinets and won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1912, whose selection for the jury was reported some time ago. Serving with him are:

Edward M. House, former confidant of Woodrow Wilson, who served as special representative of the United States Government at the inter-allied conference of Premiers and Foreign Ministers in Paris in November, 1917.

Major-General James Guthrie Harbord, now president of the Radio Corporation of America, who served as chief of staff of the American Expeditionary Force and as chief of the American Military Mission to Armenia in 1919.

Dr. Ellen Fitz Pendleton, president of Wellesley College.

Dr. Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard Law School, who formerly served on the faculties of Northwestern University and the University of Chicago.

William Allen White of Emporia, Kan., editor and novelist, who was sent to France as an observer by the American Red Cross in 1917 and was a delegate to the Russian conference at Brinkipo in 1919.

Brand Whitlock, former Ambassador to Belgium.

"These seven have been chosen," the Policy Committee explained, "after many weeks of careful consideration, on a basis of selection which aimed not at obtaining a jury made up of representatives of varied groups and sections, but aimed instead at getting seven men and women generally recognized to be eminently fitted by capacity and experience to deal with the exceedingly difficult and complex subject of our international relations. The committee regarded the work of the jurors as a highly important judicial task, requiring distinctive abilities and experience."

The jury is expected to reach its decision by Jan. 1. All plans must be in by Nov. 15. Fifty thousand dollars will be paid to the winner as soon as the jury makes its decision and the other $50,000 when the plan has passed the Senate or when it has demonstrated that it has popular support.

The committee in charge of the award plans in January to submit the winning plan to the American people for a nation-wide vote. In this 60 national organizations will co-operate. It is expected that the plan will be presented to the Senate by Feb. 1.

MISSOURI FRUIT REPORTED NOT SO GOOD AS IN 1922

Vegetables, However, Better—Apples 50 Per Cent of Normal.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 17.—Missouri fruits generally are not as good as last year, while the vegetable crop is better, says the Missouri State Board of Agriculture's monthly report, issued today. Potatoes were an especially good crop, the report added.

Apples are 50 per cent of a full crop, with heavy yields in some of the central counties, the report said. Grapes, at 75 per cent, are poor in the southwest section and not as good as in previous years in other sections. Peas, at 65 per cent, are quoted as "quite good" in a few northwest counties, but unfavorable in most sections. Peaches are only 40 per cent of a full crop with a quality lower than last year. Watermelons are but half a crop in the commercial sections.

Strawberries were lighter than last year, due to spring frosts. Blackberries and raspberries were good, although cut in yield by the July drought.

Potatoes are yielding better than in several years, according to the report, and the farm crop is of fine quality. Sweet potatoes in the southeast counties are good.

TWO IDENTIFIED AS ROBBERS

Approach of Another Pedestrian Saves One Man Held Up.

Two men who gave their names as Denver Maynard, 28 years old, and Guy Wallen, 43, were arrested early yesterday at Twelfth street and Park avenue, half an hour after two holdups in that vicinity. The persons held up identified them, despite their denials.

The first holdup was that of Clarence Saunchoy, 1333 South Thirteenth street, from whom $2 was taken at 12:10 a. m. in front of 1325 Park avenue. The other was of George McKay, 1318 Kennett place, at Park avenue and Carroll street. McKay lost nothing, because the robbers were frightened away by the approach of another pedestrian.

Man Shoots at Landlord.
Police are searching for Tony Castellano, 40 years old, of 906 Harlan avenue, who at 7:30 o'clock last night fired one shot from a shotgun at his landlord, Joseph Diriamondo, and escaped, taking with him the gun and a revolver which he had stolen from Diriamondo. Witnesses said the attack on Diriamondo was without provocation and that Castellano had been acting queerly for about two weeks. Diriamondo was only slightly wounded.

Three Feet of Water in Town.
EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 17.—According to messages received by the telephone company from Roswell, N. M., a second heavy cloudburst occurred there Saturday night. Yesterday afternoon there was three feet of water rushing down Missouri street and several inches of water on the main floor of the Citizens'

National Bank Building. Spring River was out of its banks and houses in the vicinity were under several feet of water. Residents moved out.

ITALY APPOINTS ARMY OFFICER AS FIUME GOVERNOR

Gen. Giordano to Be Military Ruler of City—Government of Independent State Resigns.

POPULACE SAID TO NEED SUBSISTENCE

Vice President of the Assembly Complains of Delay in Settlement of the Question.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The appointment of Gen. Giordano as Governor of Fiume, the Italian Embassy was advised today by the Foreign Office at Rome, is merely for purposes of administration and preserving of public order. "The Italian Government," it was said, "does not want to give this appointment the character of annexation."

Premier Mussolini feels, the foreign office added, that the re-establishment of public order at Fiume will make possible and easier the execution of an eventual agreement with the Jugo-Slavian Government concerning the status of Fiume. The appointment of a Governor was regarded as necessary to prevent action by any irregular elements against Jugo-Slavia. The Italian Government was said to be eager for a peaceful and friendly settlement of the Fiume question.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 17.—Gen. Giordano, third in command of the Italian army, has been appointed military Governor of Fiume. Gen. Giordano is a former Minister of War. The Government of the Independent State of Fiume resigned yesterday.

The Italian Government yesterday received from Signor Depoli, vice president of the assembly of Fiume, a letter complaining of the delay in settling the Fiume question. He said the question had caused much discontent. The populace was suffering greatly through unemployment and he had repeatedly called the attention of the Italian Government to the dangerous effect of delay in settling the question.

No Authority Left.
Signor Depoli added that now the negotiations had failed, he felt it would be useless to remain in office, although, when he resigned, there would be no authority in Fiume, and by the end of the month the city would be completely deprived of any means of subsistence.

Signor Depoli, since March, 1922, has been in charge of the Fiume Government. "The city is lost," says Signor Depoli in his letter, "unless the Italian Government takes its destiny to heart. . . . Fiume turns to Italy with anxious hope because it is she who garrisoned Fiume with valiant soldiers."

Declaring that Fiume cannot become the ground for hopeless experiments, but has the right to live, Signor Depoli expresses the conviction that his withdrawal will serve the purpose of putting the situation right before the whole world. He calls attention to the fact that the day he leaves office no authority will remain except the staff of royal troops.

Feeling in Italy Rising.
Feeling regarding the Fiume settlement is steadily rising throughout Italy. A prominent Fascist leader, speaking to the correspondent of The Associated Press, said: "Most Italians acknowledge that the fate and prosperity of Fiume, with scarcely 42,000 inhabitants, is a small detail in the internal and foreign problem of the Italy of today."

An Italian Fiume would never be deserted, he declared emphatically. "Fiume fought so long and courageously to assert and preserve its Italianity that it has become the incarnation of Italian ideals. If now we fail in our loyalty and support of the brave little town we should feel ourselves traitors to our ideals to our most sacred duties."

"The truth is that despite the abnegation of the population of Fiume and the assistance received from Italy its inhabitants are on the verge of starvation and Italy feels that it is impossible to leave 40,000 fellow Italians to die without trying to rescue them. Any measure taken by the Italian Government with regard to Fiume must therefore be considered as a plain humanitarian duty, not as antagonistic to Jugo-Slavia, for Italy declares that it is not preparing for war does it desire a rupture with Serbia."

No Decision Reached at Belgrade Regarding Fiume.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Sept. 17.—A dispatch to the Matin from Belgrade says the Council of Ministers, presided over by the King, has examined Italy's new proposals for a settlement of the question of the future of Fiume, but no decision has been reached. The dispatch adds that the King has concluded to await the arrival of the Foreign Minister from Geneva.

Question of How to Deal With Italy

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Sept. 17.—The Greco-Italian question now has been happily settled, say the delegates to the Council of the League of Nations. But the question of how to deal with Italy is proving perplexing.

"Stormy," was the word employed in summarizing the session of the council which was hurriedly convened Saturday night and which did not adjourn until early Sunday morning. It was devoted to this delicate question.

The Greco-Italian conflict has been settled, say the delegates, thanks to the motive power of the League of Nations, backed by world opinion. But they declare Italy has defied the league and the assembly should take some action calculated to reinforce the prestige of the league.

Greek Warships to Salute Allied Squadrons Wednesday.

By the Associated Press.
TARANTO, Italy, Sept. 17.—Arrangements for the ceremony of Phalaron on Wednesday, in which the Greek fleet will salute an Allied naval squadron in accordance with the settlement of the Greco-Italian incident, were announced here today. The Italian squadron will join the French cruiser Jean Bart and the British battle cruiser Hood 10 miles off Phalaron and the combined force under command of the Italian Admiral Solari, will steam before the Greek fleet, which will salute the Italian flag with 21 guns. The Greek vessels in the ceremony will include the cruiser Giorgos Averoff and the battleship Lemnos, formerly the U. S. S. Idaho. As soon as the ceremony is over the Italian squadron will sail for Corfu.

While the religious ceremony for the Italian victims of the massacre near Janina, which precipitated the crisis, is being held in the Catholic Cathedral in Athens, requiem masses will be celebrated aboard the battleship Conte di Cavour for Gen. Tellini and the other victims of the massacre.

The bodies of the slain officers are expected to arrive here Thursday aboard the battleship San Marco, escorted by the Conte di Cavour, the Giulio Cesare and a squadron of destroyers. They will be received by all the civil, military and ecclesiastical authorities, patriotic associations and the entire garrison of Fascist militia.

The bodies will be sent to Rome, where a solemn tribute will be paid, with the King and his entire Cabinet participating.

CHILD DRUDGE ON FARM SLEPT IN CHICKEN COOP

Ate With Dog—Uncle in New York to Adopt Girl Slave in Illinois.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Her little hands red and swollen after four years of slavery on an Illinois farm, where she ate with the dog and slept in a chicken coop, Margaret Melton, for the first time in her drab life, is sleeping on a real pillow, in the Washington Heights home of her uncle, Daniel F. Coghlan, a detective, of this city.

Margaret is the old story of the unwanted child. Her father is Lloyd Melton, Chicago inventor, a half-brother of Coghlan. When the girl was 5 years old Melton divorced his wife, it is alleged. In answer to his advertisement for a kind couple to take care of Margaret, J. J. Smith, now wanted in connection with the alleged murder of a Chicago policeman, but then a farmer of La Grange, Ill., stepped forward.

Melton was able to give only $250, and Margaret became the Smith drudge. She took care of the chickens, learned to milk the cows, washed dishes and scrubbed floors.

For four years Margaret starved and sweated. Then the Children's Aid Society of Chicago stepped in and policemen called at the Smith farm. The Smiths had disappeared. At the detention home deep bruises and purple marks were discovered on the undernourished child. Newspapers made a great hue and cry about child slavery, and Detective Coghlan realized this must be the child of his half-brother.

Now Margaret is learning to say "Mother" and "Father" all over again. Coghlan says he will legally adopt her.

SAYS KANSAS CITY WOMAN'S PAINTING IS NOT A DA VINCI

British Art Connoisseur Believes Original Is One Hanging in Louvre in Paris.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Sept. 17.—Sir Martin Conway, English art connoisseur, testified before American Consul-General Thackara today that the "La Belle Ferroniere," owned by Mrs. Andre Hahn of Kansas City, was not painted by Leonardo da Vinci, whose recognized original of this subject hangs in the Louvre. He said it was his opinion that the Hahn picture was painted between 1650 and 1700.

Sir Martin was one of the nine critics who examined the two pictures side by side in the Louvre Saturday in the presence of attorneys for both sides in Mrs. Hahn's damage suit against Sir Joseph Phipps because of his statement that her painting was not an original Da Vinci.

Sir Martin, testifying today, said he did not pretend to be an expert, but that after studying art for 50 years he thought he had acquired a sensitivity of impression enabling him to tell as well as anyone could, whether a picture was painted by one of the masters. The painting in the Louvre he regarded as a genuine Da Vinci, though he remarked there was no way of proving beyond cavil the authenticity of most of this master's works.

Triebler Eligible to Retire Soon.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 15.—On his seventieth birthday anniversary, Oct. 6 next, Federal Judge Jacob Triebler of the United States District Court here, will be eligible to retire, but it is expected he will continue to serve. Judge Triebler is a native of Germany but came to the United States with his parents when he was a child. His parents settled in St. Louis, but in 1885 moved to Helena, Ark. In 1897, he was appointed United States District Attorney and served in that capacity for three years, when he was appointed to the Federal Judgeship. He was president of the American Bar Association in 1914-15. He has been active in Republican politics for many years.

WIFE SAYS SHE KILLED MAN TO PROTECT HER OWN LIFE

"Feared He Would Beat Me to Death," Declares Mrs. Lillian Broussard, Fort Worth.

By the Associated Press.
FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 17.—"I shot him because I feared he would beat me to death."

This was the declaration of Mrs. Lillian Broussard, 28 years old, who yesterday shot and killed her husband, Eugene L. Broussard, 23, at their apartment here. A charge of murder was filed against the woman, and she was released on bond of $10,000.

The slayer declared that her married life had been a nightmare of brutality and unreasonable jealousy on the part of her husband, whom she married last Christmas eve. She stated that when she arose yesterday morning her husband continued an argument which started the night before, and after a few words he arose and knocked her down. "She rushed into another room, obtained a revolver and fired one shot into his body. Broussard was an engineer employed at a local packing plant."

FOSTER-DAUGHTER ARRESTED
IN SEELEY MURDER CASE

Indictment Charges Her with Killing Woman Found a Year Ago with Her Throat Cut.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.—Mrs. May MacNeill was arrested at her home in this city yesterday for the murder of her foster mother, Mrs. Hannah Seeley, whose body, with the throat cut, was found beside two butcher knives on the porch of her home at Egg Harbor, N. J., a year ago.

Mrs. Seeley was declared to have committed suicide at the time, but Zonite!

The Greatest of all Antiseptics
What It Is

ZONITE is a concentrated, stabilized and perfected form of the Carrel-Dakin Solution.
 The Carrel-Dakin Solution is an antiseptic developed during the World War by two eminent scientists. War hospital records show that it reduced amputations and deaths from infection over seventy per cent and saved the lives of hundreds of thousands of desperately wounded men. It has been adopted and is in daily use by the medical profession and in hospitals throughout the civilized world.
 By standard laboratory tests Zonite has greater germicidal strength than pure carbolic acid. It has about seventy-five times the germicidal strength of peroxide of hydrogen and forty times the germicidal strength of any solution of carbolic acid, iodine, bichloride of mercury, etc., that can be applied with safety to the human body.
 In addition to its high germicidal efficiency, Zonite is non-poisonous, non-irritating, non-caustic and healing. It can be used freely and frequently on the delicate membranes and tissues of the human body without harm.

What It Does

For Preventing Contagious Diseases

Until the discovery of this form of antiseptic, it was impossible to introduce freely into the mouth and nose any antiseptic solution at sufficient strength to destroy disease germs effectively. It is the prevention of germ diseases therefore, that Zonite finds one of its greatest fields of usefulness. During epidemics of colds, grippe, scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles, whooping cough, sore throat and other respiratory diseases, when every sneeze and draft scatters millions of germs, Zonite should be used frequently as a throat spray and nasal douche.

For Cuts and Wounds

Zonite should be promptly applied to a fresh cut or wound to destroy the germs which cause blood poisoning and other similar forms of infection. In addition to acting as a disinfectant, it will shorten the process of healing and greatly reduce the usual pain and inflammation.

As a Mouth Wash

A solution of one teaspoonful Zonite added to one-quarter glass of water used night and morning as a mouth wash will destroy breath odors and act as an excellent preventive against pyorrhea.
 Dental authorities have stated that the daily use of Zonite in this manner, together with regular dental inspection, reduces the likelihood of contracting this disease to a minimum.

Sore Throat

Nearly all the ailments of the throat are due to bacterial infection. Prompt relief, therefore, can not be obtained without the use of an effective germicide. One part Zonite to five parts water as a gar-gle or throat spray usually clears up and controls throat infections. In severe cases, especially when ulcerations are present, the throat should be swabbed with pure Zonite and your physician called. Begin treatment promptly when symptoms first appear.

For Burns, Scalds and Blisters

Zonite is especially valuable in the treatment of burns, scalds and blisters. It prevents infection, aids in removing charred or dead tissue, helps to reduce inflammation, and accelerates healing. It also lessens scars and disfigurements that are apt to follow wounds of this character.

For Personal Hygiene

Zonite is the ideal antiseptic for personal hygiene.
 Potent caustic compounds, such as bichloride of mercury, phenol and cresol solutions, etc., are tremendously harmful when used regularly for douche medication. Any physician will verify this statement. Write for the Zonite booklet on personal hygienic for women.

For Dandruff

Dandruff (seborrhea sicca) and many other scalp irritations are due to bacterial infection. Zonite has proved remarkably effective in removing these annoying conditions.
 It kills the micro-organisms, dissolves and removes the scaling incrustations and creates a stimulating and tonic effect on the scalp tissues and hair follicles.

CANADIAN UNION LEADER ASSAULTS U. S. LABOR BOARD

Head of Railway Employees Declares
 It Is Menace to Interests of Workers.

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 17.—Denunciation of the United States Railroad Labor Board as the tool of the employers, and of the strike as "Too powerful a weapon" for workers engaged in essential public services to employ, marked the address of A. R. Mosher, president, at the convention of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees today.
 The United States Railroad Labor Board, Mosher declared, "is a great menace to railway employees than any other combination of individuals on the North American continent."
 He accused the board of aiding railway managements "in their attacks upon the pay envelopes of the workers" and referred to it as "a United States Government tribunal which has made itself ridiculous in the eyes of every right thinking person by declaring that a living wage for workers is impractical and impossible."
 "The strike," said Mosher, "is, in the case of an essential public service like transportation, too powerful a weapon for use in any ordinary circumstance. The way for us to get the best possible wages and working conditions is, first, to deserve them, and, second, to let the public know that we deserve them."

20 MINUTES, SEAMAN REPORTS

Officer of Liner Says Intense Light Paralyzed His Eyes for Several Minutes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—As he peered into the dim reaches of the Atlantic in the early dawn last Wednesday, Second Officer H. H.
 Lancaster of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Line Orbita, was shocked from his post on the bridge when the heavens suddenly broke into a canopy of brilliant light.
 For five minutes he was held spellbound while an immense meteor, the sailors "hoond of the heavens," shot from horizon to horizon, leaving a luminous, greenish vapor in its wake suffusing the heavens for 20 minutes with color.
 "It was like a glorified sky rocket with a ruddy and brilliant trail," said Lancaster upon the arrival of the Orbita today. "Suddenly, in the same fashion as a Chinese rocket, it burst and all the world seemed filled with a greenish, magic light. The intense light paralyzed my eyes for five minutes and then I saw floating in the remote upper spaces a streak which glowed as volcanic fires do through brownish smoke."
 The meteor was recorded in the Orbita's log as flashing at 5:50 o'clock Greenwich time in Latitude
 46.12 North and Longitude 38.43 West. It crossed the heavens from a south to a north northerly location, from the direction of the constellation of Pegasus through Cassiopsa and vanished in the region of the Great Bear. The meteor was about four times the size of Sirius.

NO PRESENTMENT RETURNED
 Grand Jury Criticized North Carolina Corporation Commission.
 By the Associated Press.
 RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 17.—In an article carrying the date line of Wilmington, N. C., and circulated Saturday afternoon, Sept. 15, it was stated that a presentment had been made by the grand jury of New Hanover County, N. C., against the North Carolina State Corporation Commission on the ground that the commission had been lax in its enforcement of State banking laws and referring particularly to the failure of the Liberty Bank of Wilmington.
 It has been ascertained that the article was erroneous, as there was no presentment made. Solicitor Woodus Mellum of New Hanover County said today:
 "A criticism of the corporation commission was made by the grand jury in its report to the court, but there was no presentment returned."

 MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 17.
 —The New York police were notified last night of the death in the Morgantown hospital yesterday of a four-months-old girl, left there by tourists, on the possibility that the dead baby might be Lillian McKenzie, stolen in New York. The child died from malnutrition and was left at the hospital by a man and wom-

SEAPLANE FOUND WRECKED Body of Pilot Believed to Be in Submerged Cockpit.
 By the Associated Press.
 BELMAR, N. J., Sept. 17.—A Government tug and several coast guard launches today went out to sea to salvage a wrecked seaplane found last night two miles off shore.
 Members of the coast guard who stood by the wreck last night were unable to get into the submerged cockpit to search for the body of the pilot, who is believed to have perished. The seaplane apparently was privately owned.

Glimpses at Some of the New Books

"SAINT-SAENS," by Arthur Hervey. (Dodd, Mead & Co.)

There are few figures in modern life that afford greater opportunity for the biographer than that of Camille Saint-Saens. His public life began when Mendelssohn, Chopin and Schumann were alive. Wagner and Verdi were at the beginning of their careers; Balzac, Dumas, Victor Hugo and George Sand were at the height of their fame. He lived through the harrowing days of the Franco-Prussian War and the fall of the Second Empire. He was closely allied with the great movements of his time and the friend of many of those famous artists. He linked that age, the age of Louis Philippe, the citizen king, with this vastly different world of our own.

The purpose, however, of the present volume is not intensive biography, nor exhaustive and technical musical criticism. The book is, instead, a survey of Saint-Saens' career and an examination of his music, descriptive rather than critical, of his production.

The rather bald chronology of his life is a tantalizing glimpse into the musical worlds of Paris and London, with hurried pictures of the young composer, attracting the praise of Berlioz, Wagner and Liszt; and in later life proceeding in unbroken triumphs from Algiers to Buenos Aires, and never, in the most tumultuous days of his career, too busy to neglect his feverish productivity.

The greater part of the book takes up in detail the stories of his operas, the most famous of which, "Samson and Delilah," is justly popular with music-loving audiences the world over, and accounts of his symphonic and orchestral works. It would seem after even a cursory glance that there was no field of musical activity in which Saint-Saens was not identified.

This is, the author states, the first book in the language to be devoted entirely to the life and works of Saint-Saens. As such, it serves well indeed to introduce to the English and American public the great French composer and pianist.

"RED BUD WOMEN," by Mark O'Dea. (Stewart Kidd Co.)

JUST wait until Mark O'Dea struts up Red Bud way and see what the Red Bud women do to him. They may give him a chance to explain that he didn't mean that they are all like the Red Bud Women in his red-bud book, and they may not. Women are sometimes abrupt about these things.

Red Bud is somewhere up in Iowa, and O'Dea has been up there looking for women who live stark empty lives on American farms and in American small towns, and of course finding what he was looking for.

He found Mary Sykes, who wanted electric lights and electric tins in the house and went crazy when hope, long deferred, was bright again by the decision of her man, Solomon Sykes, who bought a tractor instead.

And he found Hulda, who married John Poff and had a most unusual tantrum on her wedding night.

And Miss Myrtle, the village milliner, and her sister, Fanny, and Farmer Fishback, who was something of a corn-belt Lothario.

And Ethelyn, the village vamp, and Amanda Lumm, the school teacher, and Fred Schellenberg, a brilliant beau, whose hesitancy was overcome in rather an unexpected manner.

And he brought them back and put them into little plays, which are called by W. L. George as "Mark Truth," "Red Bud Women," being among the women about whom Mr. George is stark wise.

And Theodore Ballou Hinckley, writing a somewhat pompous and tilted foreword on the American "peasant" in general and the Red Bud (Ia.) "peasant" in particular, and the relation thereof of Mark O'Dea and his little plays, asks what Red Bud, meaning any corn belt village of approximately the same size and subject to the same general living conditions, stands for among us today, and answers this way:

"It stands for the stark empty lives of American farm women; but for Mark O'Dea it stands also for an awakening dimly astir in the consciousness of these women. They reach out for new light; they grope and totter and fall, half blinded by the dazzle of the sudden sunshine; they seek to become disinterested and sage at life with but lately opened eyes, searching for the beauty they have hitherto so poignantly missed. They shudder away from that vagueness of self which has been so overwhelmingly their lot. But Red Bud, and the world, to boot, thrusts them back, wounded, fatally hurt, outlined shabbily against the surrounding bleakness."

What noise is that? That, Mr. Mark O'Dea and Mr. Theodore Ballou Hinckley and Mr. W. L. George is the loud laughter of the Red Bud Women. That is one thing about them which needs no tuning down. They laugh out loud when they hear something funny.

Not that there isn't an occasional Mark empty life in Red Bud, an occasional Mary Sykes who fails to get what she wants, an occasional hysterical Hulda and an occasional et cetera, but they are quite as unusual in Red Bud as they are elsewhere. There are not enough of them, really, to justify all this intensity of the O'Dea-Hinckley-George cult of cartoonists.

It was not necessary for Mr. O'Dea to go all the way to Red Bud to find Mary Sykes, who cannot have all the electrical flimsies that she wants, and there are plenty of hysterical Huldas nearer home, and so with the rest of the Red Bud celebrities. He need not even have gone to the country to look for them. There are plenty of stark empty lives in the crowded cities.

Stark emptiness of individual lives is not peculiar to any locality or class of localities or strata of society. If a Red Bud woman were to come to town looking for some, she might find two among the producers of morbid "woman stuff" and prove them so by their product.

"Rube," by G. A. Borgese. (Harcourt, Brace & Co.)

THIS work from the Italian— which, by the way, has made it quite a stir abroad—is the first novel written by Borgese. Borgese has had a varied career, however, as a journalist, as a scholar and professor of literature, and also as a composer, attracting the praise of Berlioz, Wagner and Liszt; and in later life proceeding in unbroken triumphs from Algiers to Buenos Aires, and never, in the most tumultuous days of his career, too busy to neglect his feverish productivity.

TEN-POUND INDIAN AX OF IRON FOUND NEAR ALTON

Weapon of Drift Hematite Must Have Weighed 12 Pounds With Handle and Fittings.

The Indian who wielded the great hematite war ax which was found near Roxana, Ill., last week must have had the build of a Dempsey or a Firpo, for, with handle and thong which bound head to handle, the weight was nearly 12 pounds. The chunk of drift hematite iron which had been shaped into an ax alone weighed 10 pounds.

The finding of hematite axes is not uncommon, but a discovery of so large a one near Alton is uncommon. There is every indication that this Indian ax was several inches longer than it is now, part of it having been broken off. This particular ax probably was never used for any purpose requiring a sharp instrument. It was probably for battle.

In the section where this hematite ax was found, the Illinois Indians, under their chief, Muguangout, (the Big Axe) lived. Their camps and hunting grounds extended all the way from the mouth of the Illinois River to the lowlands below Alton. Because this was a hunting ground, where they spent much of their time, many Indian axes and pipes and pieces of pottery abound.

GRIFFIN MURDER TRIAL CALLED

Hamilton and Daniels Charged With Killing Policeman.

The first trial for the murder of Patrolman William E. Griffin at Telegraph Inn St. Louis County, June 10 last, that of two of the five defendants charged with the crime, Oliver Hamilton and Clarence Daniels, was called for Circuit Judge Wurdeman's court at Clayton this afternoon.

The defendants are alleged to be members of the "Cuckoo" gang which infests the region of lower Chouteau avenue. The others have taken severances. The trial of Layman Burleson is set for Oct. 8, that of August Webber for Oct. 1 and Leo Cronin, the fifth, has applied for a change of venue and a hearing on this motion is set for Sept. 28.

ADRENALINE FAILURE REPORTED

Sing Sing Physicians Unable to Revive Any of 20 Men Electrocuted.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Dr. Amos C. Squire, physician at Sing Sing Prison, told the delegates to the American Prison Association convention here today that it was impossible to revive life by the injection of a solution of adrenaline chlorate in the heart wall after electrocution. He said that he had experimented with 20 men and found it impossible to bring them back to life. He has officiated at the execution of 114 persons at Sing Sing. "At most of our autopsies, we are able to produce fibrillar contraction of the heart by touching the wall with an instrument," Dr. Squire said. "And sometimes we can produce this for over an hour after death. The injection of a solution of adrenaline chlorate in the heart wall does not produce any contraction of the heart muscle, so it can be seen that it is impossible to revive life by this means after electrocution."

GASOLINE CHEAPER IN EAST

Tank Wagon Price Cut Cent in New England and 8 Other States.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The tank wagon price of gasoline today was reduced 1 cent a gallon in New England and eight Atlantic seaboard states by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and the Gulf Refining Co. The new price ranges from 18 cents in Washington, to 21 cents in Virginia, where there is a State tax of 3 cents a gallon.

The Texas Co. announced it would meet the reduction. The territory in which the cut was announced by the Standard of New Jersey includes New Jersey and North and South Carolina. In addition to the New England States, the Gulf Refining Co. reduced the price in New York and New Jersey. The new price in most of the territory affected is 15 cents a gallon, plus the State tax, if any.

Kammann and Barnes Come From Behind to Win District Net Title

Lose First Two Sets to Heuermann and Schwarz and Then, After Tying Score at Two Sets All, They Trail 5-4 and 40-15 in Fifth Set, Which They Finally Win, 9-7.

By Davison Obar.

Karl Kammann and Charlie Barnes are the new doubles champions of the St. Louis District Tennis Association as a result of their victory over Ted Heuermann and Elmer Schwarz, national municipal champions, in the final round at the Triple A yesterday afternoon. The score was 2-6, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, 9-7.

The two teams battled through five sets which lasted for nearly three hours. Kammann and Barnes scored a total of 170 points, while their opponents counted 172. Due to the cold weather only a small crowd witnessed the match. Except for a strong wind, the playing conditions were good.

Kammann and Barnes won the opening game in the first set. Heuermann and Schwarz took the next five, lost the seventh game and then won the next game and the set, 6-2. Kammann and Barnes were very erratic and their volleying was bad. Heuermann was good on overhead strokes, while Schwarz did some excellent volleying.

A Commanding Lead.
The second set was closer. Heuermann and Schwarz ran the score up to 4-1. At this point Kammann and Barnes took the net and by better accuracy brought the score to 4-3. The National municipal champions won the next game only to lose the following. Trailing one game behind at 5-4, Kammann and Barnes fought hard in the tenth game. There were a number of rallies, but Heuermann and Schwarz finally won it, giving them the set at 6-4.

Both teams played better tennis in the third set. Kammann and Barnes improved their play and won the first three games. Barnes netted a number of balls, while Kammann sent some out to Heuermann and Schwarz.

By Steadier play Kammann and Barnes gained a lead of 5 to 3. Their opponents, however, made the set 5-4 by winning two games. Net play and better teamwork gave Kammann and Barnes two games and the set, 7-5.

A Great Come-Back.
The 10-minute rest seemed to benefit Kammann and Barnes. They went through the fourth set in a hurry, winning by a 6-3 score. Kammann was getting better control of his forearm drives, while Barnes was steadier. Schwarz made a number of errors, while Heuermann drove out of court after several important rallies.

Lobbing was resorted to frequently in the fifth and deciding set. Kammann and Barnes seemed to have better control over their lob. They ran up a lead of 3 to 1, but the set at 8-7 and the match.

Mac Smith of East St. Louis won the consolation singles event by defeating Forrest C. Stuckman of the Triple A in the final round. The score was 6-2, 6-1. Earlier in the afternoon Mac Smith won the third set from Robert Norton of O'Fallon Park, 7-5. This was a semifinal-round contest.

Both teams were fighting desperately for every point. Barnes showed more determination now and began to help Kammann, who was storming the net for needed points. Heuermann and Schwarz, however, were a little steadier and as a result led at 6 to 5 and 7 to 6. Kammann and Barnes, however, came from behind each time and tied the score. They made a number of points on net play in the next two games, which they won, giving them the set at 8-7 and the match.

Heuermann and Schwarz, however, were a little steadier and as a result led at 6 to 5 and 7 to 6. Kammann and Barnes, however, came from behind each time and tied the score. They made a number of points on net play in the next two games, which they won, giving them the set at 8-7 and the match.

Mac Smith of East St. Louis won the consolation singles event by defeating Forrest C. Stuckman of the Triple A in the final round. The score was 6-2, 6-1. Earlier in the afternoon Mac Smith won the third set from Robert Norton of O'Fallon Park, 7-5. This was a semifinal-round contest.

Both teams were fighting desperately for every point. Barnes showed more determination now and began to help Kammann, who was storming the net for needed points. Reiselt Defeats Champion Layton In Angle Tourney

High Run of Eight Gives Philadelphia, 60-53, Victory—Denton Trims Canefax.

Otto Reiselt, the Philadelphia star, and Tiff Denton of Kansas City were the winners in the first matches of the "world's series" at three cushions at the Layton-Emery parlor yesterday. Reiselt defeated Johnny Layton of St. Louis, the present titleholder, 60 to 53, in 84 innings, while Denton was returned the victor over Bob Canefax of Detroit, a former world's titleholder, 60 to 54 in 88 innings.

In the matches today, Reiselt plays Canefax this afternoon, while Denton and Layton are scheduled to battle tonight. The local series will be concluded tomorrow after which the players move to Kansas City for three days. The tournament will be completed with games at Philadelphia and New York.

Reiselt was able to defeat Layton in the match last night because of a high run of eight in the final inning. Up to that time, Layton had enjoyed an advantage of one point. Reiselt's eight was the high run of the day, being one better than the one hung up by Denton.

There was a great deal of safety in the Denton-Canefax match, Denton playing a "safety shot" on 17 occasions and Canefax on 19.

Bethlehem Team Offers to Play in St. Louis Oct. 27

Winton Barker Asks Eastern Team of Foreign Born Soccer Players for Exhibition Games.

By John E. Wray,

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Winton Barker, president of the St. Louis Soccer League and head of the Missouri district of the United States Football Association, has wired to Secretary Thomas W. Cahill asking for exhibition games with the Bethlehem Steel Co. team, the games to be played in St. Louis.

Cahill wired Barker that the dates Oct. 27 and Oct. 28 were agreeable to the Bethlehem team, and a reply is being awaited from St. Louis. It is probable the dates will be accepted, though they are early in the local season.

The Bethlehem team is composed almost entirely of foreign-born players, some of whom, recently acquired, belonged to first division old country teams. As St. Louis eleven are made up entirely of St. Louis-born boys the event would assume an international aspect.

Club to Use Ball Parks.

One of the interesting features developed since the return of Secretary Cahill from his Western tour was that two teams of the professional soccer league known as the "American" league had obtained professional baseball parks as their winter "homes." The New York Glens, formerly the Patersons, who played the Scullins of St. Louis to a 3-0 score in the cup final, last year, will home at the Polo Grounds. The Philadelphia football club will play at the National League Baseball Park in Philadelphia.

It is the hope of the professional soccer league heads that the baseball parks one day will join in the movement to establish a major national league of soccer football clubs, to play during the idle months of the ball parks.

New Rule on Substitutions.

Another interesting item for soccer fans found in the new rules and regulations issued by the parent soccer body in England with which U. S. F. A. affiliates.

In the rule book is an announcement which states that, in exhibition games, TEAMS WILL BE PERMITTED TO USE SUBSTITUTES.

The rule governing match play prohibits the use of substitutes, even for injury.

The move is considered an evidence of awakening by the European rulers of the game, with respect to this ironclad rule against substitutions.

Americans cannot understand the reason why spectators should have to witness a one-sided game, when one team, through misfortune, suffers the loss of a player.

The official schedule of the American Soccer League has been issued. The season will open Oct. 6 when two games will be played. There are eight teams in the league, including J. & P. Costas, the Philadelphia Football Club, the New York Football Club, the Brooklyn Football Club, the Fall River Football Club, the National Giants, the Hartford Soccer Club and the Bethlehem Steel Co. Club.

There is a chance that the Corinthians—a famous amateur British soccer football organization—will come to this country for a tour. Application for permission to bring the Corinthians to this country was received by Secretary Cahill, recently, from the League of Associated Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia, a body which also fosters soccer football.

DR. CALKINS CAPTURES PISTOL CHAMPIONSHIP

By the Associated Press. CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 17.—The United States pistol team had no opposition in the international team match at the National Rifle Association tournament here yesterday and walked away with that event with a total of 2450 out of a possible 2600. None of the other countries had sufficient pistol men present to constitute a team.

By being high man on the United States pistol, Dr. R. R. Calkins of Springfield, Mass., won the individual international pistol championship. His score was 823.

Wray's Column

The Passing of Benjamin.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Tribe of Benjamin will miss one of its notables from the Hall of Publicity. He is R. B. Benjamin, for years manager and the "brains" of Willie Hoppe, the world's greatest balk-line billiard player.

Benjamin, a nationally known figure, and a man of perseverance and a lot of fight, is now broken in health. He has parted company with Hoppe in the promotion of their Broadway billiard "Club," otherwise known as the "Great Broadway Eggs"—so christened by Bob Canefax.

Furthermore the partnership of Hoppe and Benjamin in the matter of the annual tour, of which our own Charles Peterson was once the largest feature, has been severed.

Benny is alone. Hoppe is now sole proprietor of the hall and has a Chicago promoter, Hyatt by name, as his aide.

"They didn't conduct it along club lines, so I quit," Benny explained. "They allowed sharks to come in and hang around all day and expectorate on our $5000 linoleum and I couldn't stand it."

"Furthermore Willie is giving away his talents instead of asserting them, playing balk line billiards with good men without charging admission. He cheapens himself for his exhibitions."

"I am glad to be out of it," Hoppe will never again make the money he formerly did. Peterson was a bigger attraction than Willie. The public doesn't like a straight balk line exhibition. Furthermore, I believe Willie will hurt his billiard playing by promiscuous charging of his game. He plays 14-inch, instead of 18-inch balk line and sometimes takes up three cushions."

Benjamin said Willie's earnings for the past five years were tied up in various investments but that he ought to be well provided for.

"I made enough to last me my lifetime," Benjamin said. "I will let him play his balk line. I would have made him some more. But he plays too much billiards to have good business sense. It numbs his normal brain. So he'll probably have to go to work again soon."

Cahill Advances Soccer.

Thomas W. Cahill, secretary of the United States Soccer League, the "Bullets" Cahill of history and the founder of the national soccer body, returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast yesterday with glowing reports of the future of the game out there, especially with regard to its adoption by the preparatory schools.

In Seattle they have 80 school teams, Cahill remarked. In St. Louis they have none.

No great credit to the Mound City, which is making claim to be the soccer football center of the United States.

"My best work was in Minneapolis," Cahill continued, "where I made a speech before the Minnesota University Athletic authorities and I think convinced them of the advantages of soccer. I called attention to the fact that all students like sports and wanted to take part in them, particularly football; but that only about 20 men could hope to 'make' the regular squad of a university gridiron team."

"I told them that soccer football could be played by any normal young fellow, without need to special physical development. It took. As a result I am going back out there to make an address to the students, and have been promised a hearing by the officials of the entire Big Ten Conference. If we can establish an intercollegiate football league in the West, I will have been more than repaid for all efforts."

Substitution Gains Point.

THE rule prohibiting substitutions in soccer football games played under the U. S. F. A. has been softened to the extent that substitutions will be allowed in all exhibition games when injuries result.

In cup games the old rule prohibiting subs from being introduced after the game has started, no matter what the reason, will hold good.

It's a weird rule. It gives the lie to one of the fundamental rules of the game described in the book which says that there

Freight Accounts Win Two Contests And Capture Title

Santa Cruz Defeated by 12 to 4 and 9 to 3 Scores in Municipal Baseball Final.

The Freight Account team of the Missouri Pacific League won the championship of the Municipal Baseball Association yesterday defeating Santa Cruz, Knights of Columbus League pennant winner, in a double header at Fairground. The scores were 12 to 4 and 9 to 3.

Ability to hit the offerings of Jules Braun and Blaine Durbin, the south-paw star, was responsible for the victory of the Freight. Louis Madson pitched the first contest for the winners and although he was found for 10 safeties, he kept them well scattered. He was given good support, while six errors by Santa Cruz helped to Braun's downfall. Charley Fehner, the Freight Accounts' second string hurler, working the second game, turned in the best flinging exhibition of the day, holding his rivals to five safeties.

In the opening contest, the teams traveled along even for the first three rounds, but then the Freight gained a margin which the K. of C. line was unable to overcome. This contest was featured by four home runs. Sanders, Witte, Flater and Donovan pounding out the circuit drives.

Intercity Games Are Next. With the Santa Cruz team ahead, 3 to 2, the Freight Accounts put over a four-run rally against Durbin in the fifth inning of the night cap, clinching the game. In this round, 10 Freight Account batters went to the plate. Errors, hits, passes and a hit batter figured in the scoring of the tallies.

According to present plans, the Indianapolis and Omaha title winners will appear here for games Saturday and Sunday, while the following week, the local champions are scheduled to go to Omaha for a series.

Huggins' third successive chance at the world's championship will be jeopardized.

When Babe is good, the Yanks are very good; but when Babe is bad they are horrid.

Gleason to Go.

The report that Kid Gleason is at the end of his string with the Chicago White Sox reached the dignity of head lines in a local sporting page. Ray Schaak is expected to be his successor.

Kabakoff Boxes Englishman Here Tomorrow Night

Tommy Noble, Reputed to Be Skillful Boxer, Appears at Coliseum.

In his meeting with Tommy Noble at the Coliseum tomorrow night, Harry Kabakoff is provided an opportunity to again mount to the upper strata of this country's feather-weight boxers. Noble, an Englishman, claims point victories over Joe Lynch, Pal Moran, Andy Chaney, Harvey Bright and Pepper Martin since his arrival in this country.

Also, it is his boast that he knocked out the French champion, Eugene Criqui before the latter reached the dizzy heights of world champion, from which he was tumbled by Johnny Dundee.

Kabakoff has been in active and serious training for more than a month. He had prepared himself for one of the most important battles of his career two weeks ago when his prospective opponent, Sammy Mandell of Chicago, injured his hand in training and cancelled the bout. Kabby demonstrated in his recent bout with Jack Bernstein, junior lightweight champion, that he is hitting harder than ever before.

Firpo Will Be Next Champion of World, Felix Bunge Asserts

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 17.—"Luis Angel Firpo will be the next champion of the world," said Felix Bunge, Firpo's mentor, in giving his impressions yesterday of Friday night's fight between Firpo and Dempsey in New York, in which the Argentine "man of destiny" was knocked out in the second round.

Bunge said it was a matter of time, but that the title eventually would come to Argentina through the merits of Firpo. He recognized that Dempsey was the most extraordinary man that ever had stepped into a ring.

"Now that the aspects of the conquest are known," Bunge said, "they have proved how right we were in seeking a year's postponement for a fight between Firpo and Dempsey. All the American newspapers and Tex Rickard himself agree that within a year the match would have had a different result. This opinion is shared by Dempsey, who had a chance to experience the courage and terrible punch of Firpo."

and his boxing skill is as much in evidence as ever.

The show is being held under the direction of the Lafayette Athletic Club. Matchmaker Tommy Sullivan has announced the following preliminaries: Jimmy Russo, Detroit vs. Eddie Hunt, Chicago; Russell Kinder vs. Jack Douglas, both St. Louisans; Digger Nelson, Wales, vs. Elmer Kress, Brooklyn.

Baseball Pays Its Tribute to Anson

Commissioner Landis, President Heydler and Other Notables Attend Memorial Services.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—American baseball as an organization paid its tribute yesterday to "a man who played the game." One of the most notable gatherings of baseball men in baseball history gathered yesterday in Oakwoods cemetery at the grave of the late Captain Adrian C. ("Pop") Anson, leader of the "historic legion" of baseball, the Chicago White Stockings of the eighties and nineties, and after his deeds had been recited and his services to the great American sport eulogized, unveiled a plain marble shaft, erected by the National League in his honor.

Baseball stars, owners, executives and fans from every walk of life were present for the simple services for the former leader of the Chicago National League club and leaders in the baseball world declared "Pop" Anson had exerted a greater influence in making baseball the greatest American sport than any other man.

Mayor William Dever, representing the city, presided at the services. Former Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of organized baseball, and President John Heydler of the National League were among those who spoke.

What Is An "Independent"?

THE dictionary says:— An independent is one who exercises his own will or judgment without the guidance or control of others—whether in thought or some sphere of action.

In discussing the petroleum industry, the press and the public use the term "independents" to designate the competitors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The definition quoted exactly fits the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as it neither owes nor acknowledges allegiance to any man or organization.

This clearly defines the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as an "independent."

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is owned by 41,922 stockholders—not one of whom owns as much as 6% of the total stock.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is managed by a Board of Directors of ten men—every one of whom started in a comparatively humble capacity and earned his place on the Board by sheer ability. These men devote their entire time to the business of this Company.

While the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) neither owes nor acknowledges allegiance to any man or organization, it is proud to acknowledge its obligation—

First—to its stockholders who have invested their capital in the enterprise.

Second—to 27,000 loyal, earnest, hard-working employees, 10,000 of whom also are stockholders.

Third—to the 30,000,000 people in the ten Middle Western states who have come to look upon this Company as a leader in a highly specialized branch of essential industry.

Fourth—to those of our competitors who, with the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are striving to make the oil business useful to all the people.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) tries earnestly at all times to discharge its obligation to these four groups in such a highly satisfactory manner as to reflect credit not only upon itself but upon the industry as a whole.

GETS HALF OF $20,000 CLAIM

Authority for payment of $10,000 from the estate of George Waldhart, florist, to Dr. William F. Kier, 2609 Lindell boulevard, for professional services prior to Waldhart's death last March, was granted today in Probate Court. Dr. Kier had claimed $20,000. The claim was based on a letter written by Waldhart July 10, 1918, in which he stated it was his desire that Dr. Kier continue as his physician until his death.

Waldhart's estate is estimated at $200,000. His will contained a bequest of $5000 to Dr. Kier.

HAS HOME OF OWN

English Girl Who Came to United States With Young Son Is Married to Countryman.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—Miss Nancy Jordan, an English girl, was married here Saturday night to Claude Heatherington Clarke, also of England. It became known yesterday. Miss Jordan met Clarke last November on a liner while on her way to America with her young son to accept an invitation of Mrs. Frank Warren of Kansas City to make her home with her.

The invitation was an outgrowth of an acquaintanceship between the girl and Warren, whom she met while he was serving in the United States army overseas. Warren told his wife about the girl when he returned from England. When Miss Jordan arrived in New York, she was detained at Ellis Island for a while, immigration authorities fearing that she might become a public charge, but was released after Warren put up a bond to guarantee that it would not be necessary that she be supported at the expense of the public.

Miss Jordan made her home with Mrs. Warren only for a few weeks. Afterward she left, obtained a position and supported herself and son. Mrs. Warren obtained a divorce from her husband, who is a local attorney, soon after he was discharged from the army. The name of Miss Jordan was not mentioned in the divorce proceedings.

After coming to America, Clarke lost track of the young English girl. Last week while in Chicago he read in a newspaper that Miss Jordan was preparing to return to England. He immediately got in touch with the girl by long distance telephone and left Chicago, arriving here Saturday morning.

Clarke is a son of William Hayward Clarke, shirt manufacturer of Sparkhill, Birmingham, England. He came to America to be associated with his brother in business.

KANSAS CITY AND 20 MISSOURI TOWNS GET ELECTRIC RATE CUT

Voluntary Reduction in Charges to Become Effective on Oct. 1.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 17.—Voluntary reduction in electricity rates in Missouri, begun by the Union Electric Light & Power Co. in St. Louis recently, is being followed in other sections of the State.

At a conference today between members of the Missouri Public Service Commission and representatives to the Kansas City Power & Light Co., an agreement was made for a reduction in residence rates in Kansas City which will save $2,500 patrons between $200,000 and $250,000 annually.

The company also agreed to a reduction to 1 cent per kilowatt hour in the general lighting rate, applicable to residence and business lighting in 20 Missouri towns served by it. These towns are Mayview, Blackburn, Houston, Mo., Leonard, Malta Bend, Glasgow, Sweet Springs, Waverly, Carrollton, Bogard, Tina, Bosworth, Wakenda, Miami Station, Dewitt, Mendon, Keokukville, Dalton, Parkville and Avonida.

The new rates will be effective Oct. 1. In Kansas City, the lighting rate is reduced from 9.12 cents for the first three kilowatt hours to 7.5 cents for the first 3 kilowatt hours. For all above three kilowatt hours the old rate was 5.7 cents. The new rate will be 5 cents a kilowatt hour for all above 3 kilowatt hours up to 10 kilowatt hours. Above 10 kilowatt hours the new rate will be 2.5 cents as compared to the old rate of 7.5.

EMPLOYER OF WOMAN FOUND DEAD TRIES TO END HIS LIFE

Had Been Questioned in Connection With Discovery of Disembodied Body.

By the Associated Press.

BROCKTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—William F. Bowen, 67 East Bridge water, recently questioned by the police in connection with the finding of the disembodied body of Mrs. Alice M. Wolschendorf in the Merrimack River, is under guard at a hospital here where he was taken yesterday after an attempt at suicide. He cut his throat with a razor and swallowed poison. Mrs. Wolschendorf had been employed by Bowen to drive his automobile.

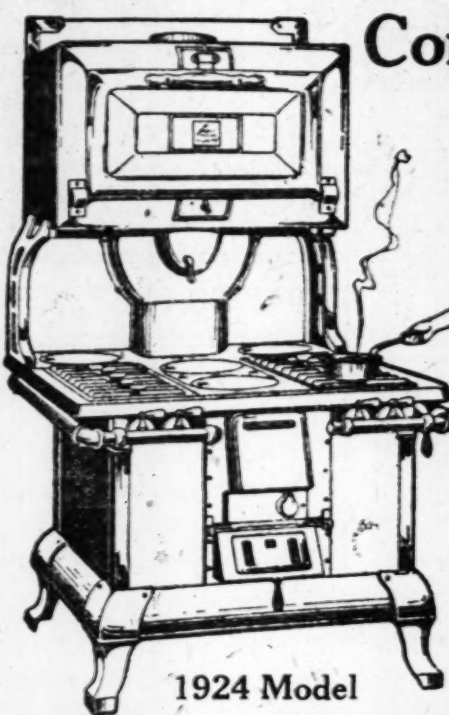

District Attorney Reading of Middlesex County said Bowen was not under arrest but that he might be held as a material witness in the case, in connection with which Dr. William M. Robb of Boston is under arrest charged with performing an illegal operation, and Dr. Dalva Scope of Brockton is charged with being an accessory before the fact.

$13,000 FOUND ON PATIENT

Resident at Ft. Dempsey's Home Hospital Guard From Hospital.

Physicians and attendants at City Hospital were startled early Sunday when a search of the clothing of Mike Morlan, an 80-year-old resident of Father Dempsey's Home, disclosed $13,000 in Liberty bonds and $500 in currency.

Morlan, who was treated for an organic disorder, returned to Father Dempsey's under an escort of two policemen and later in the day policemen escorted him to a train for New York, whence he will sail for a visit to Ireland.

Making Things Out of Nothing

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

THE other day I was in the home of a woman in the country. It is a small old house that her father left her, but with very little money to keep it up.

When you enter these rooms you would think a professional decorator had been there, for the most had been made of everything.

She had taken the old pieces of furniture and with great pains had polished them and made them look their comfortable old selves. Cheap but delightful chintzes, even calicoes, have been used in decoration and the charm that has been created is delightful.

Pieces of china that she has picked up in the neighborhood shops fill the various nooks and corners. On the whole, one has a sense of the fitness of all these things, and to dine with this woman is indeed an event.

Beautiful laces, made by her own hand, adorn the table. Every dish that is used has been chosen for its artistic effect.

When I asked her how she did all this she said: "Oh, mother always said I could make things out of nothing. I just love to fix things and make them look like something when there seems to be no hope for them."

"Besides, it is a labor of love to me to take a piece of furniture or something that has been broken and make it almost new again, and feel that but for me it would have been lost altogether."

And after you have spent a day in the home of this little woman you realize that her life is really worth while. She has actually made things out of nothing, beautiful things, that people of the finest taste would enjoy.

It is this constructive spirit in people that makes the world's real builders. There are some people who simply cannot help building or making things worth while.

Then there are those who are careless and destroy and tear down. Some people need so much with which to do things and yet they do not get the best results. But others, like this little woman, are given very little and make much out of it.

I wonder if those who are wasteful realize how much great pleasure could be derived from being responsible for making beautiful things at little cost.

Many a girl deplores her surroundings. They look commonplace, she will tell you. And she will compare her home with the homes of some of her friends. If she would but take it to heart sufficiently to make her home look beautiful, she could readily do it. The big thing is to have the will to make things around you look beautiful. The result follows.

Where good taste abounds wealth is not necessary.

Return of the Collar

Designs Are Varied and the Wearer May Choose That Which Suits the Contour of Her Throat.

By Margery Wells

WE have been a long time without collars, but the days of plain neck line, if they are not passing altogether, are at least having a rest and an innovation. This season is displaying for our choice, collars galore and in all sorts and conditions of design. It is up to the American girl, now, to say whether or not she will be a party to the newer style—whether she will place the sanction of her approval upon the new idea.

And there is not only one kind of collar that is allowed for the newer dresses. No—their designs are many and varied. You can do almost anything you please in the way of adding a collar to your frock, and the contour of your throat and head can be suited most interestingly if only you make a study of the more modern fashions to find out which one is best suited to the outlines of the upper portion of your figure.

Take the straight, standing collar, for instance, that is pictured in the illustration. That is a favorite with the designers who are putting forward the modern clothes. That is the line that they favor above all others. But the awful part of it is that it is not engagingly becoming to just every girl who comes along. When she can wear it, she is happy indeed, for she can embellish it or braid it or have it covered with applique and make it fascinatingly becoming to her style of beauty. Other than this decoration her costume, whether it be a frock or a coat, leaves nothing to be desired. The collar gives the distinction to the gown and the girl who can wear it to advantage has reason to be happy because of the direction which the fashion of the day has taken.

Now for the girl with a thinner and longer neck there are jobs of all sorts. They are a positive boon to her personality. She has, no doubt, been mourning them ever since they passed out of style or, if she is too young for that, something in her unconscious personality has realized the fact that she would arise to new expressions of beauty once they were allowed her again. For the suit, for the coat dress, for certain of the one-piece frocks, there are additions of frills that will make the gowns of the fall season look distinctive. They are made of net in pleatings, or of organdy or lace. They are soft and becoming in all of their lines and they float about the throat and reach down the front of the bodice half way or all of the way until they form distinctive additions to the gown of the moment and something that is recognized as distinctly a part of the more modern styles.

Fashion Frills

NEW YORK—Costume blouses are frequently copies of mandarin colors. This enables them to display the fashionable Chinese colors and decoration and yet cling to the jacquette effect which remains so popular.

NEW YORK—Venetian motifs vie with mystic Hindu and Persian symbols in the newer brocades. These brocades are sumptuous things of silk and velvet, with bright metallic touches.

PARIS—Not the least effective accessory just now is the velvet scarf with which tricotine and charmer street frocks are provided. The scarf is fastened at one hip with the other end left free to be thrown around the neck.

PARIS—A restaurant hat is likely to be very large at present. The crown, of velours or moire, flows into a huge bow at one side. The brim, often transparent, is embroidered with chenille.

LONDON—There is still, here and there, a hark back to the Spanish mode. Some of the new evening gowns have a vivid tulle scarf fastened about the hips, held in place by a large satin rose.

FROM NOW ON

A Continued Story.

Bookie Skarvan looked out—up, on a very shabby perspective. With the sole exception of a frankly dirty and disreputable saloon, designated as "O'Shea's," which faced him across the sidewalk, the neighborhood appeared to consist of nothing but Chinese tea-shops, laundries, restaurants and the like; while the whole street, gloomy and ill-lighted, was strewn with unprepossessing basement entrances where one descended directly from the sidewalk to the cellar level below.

Bookie Skarvan picked up his hand-bag, descended to the sidewalk, paid and dismissed the chauffeur, and pushed his way in through the swinging doors of the saloon.

"I guess I ain't drinking—not here!" confided Bookie Skarvan to himself, as he surveyed the unkempt, sawdust-strewn floor and dirty furnishings, and a group of equally unkempt and hard-looking loungers that lined the near end of the bar. "No, I guess not," said Bookie to himself; "but I guess it's the place, all right."

He made his way to the unoccupied end of the bar. The single bartender that the place evidently boasted disengaged himself from the group of loungers, and approached Bookie Skarvan.

"Wot's yours?" he inquired indifferently.

Bookie Skarvan leaned confidentially over the rail.

"I'm looking for a gentleman by the name of Smeeks," he said, and his left eyelid drooped. "Cunny Smeeks."

The bartender's restless black eyes, out of an unamiable and unshaven face, appraised Bookie Skarvan, and Bookie Skarvan's well-to-do appearance furled.

"It's a new one on me!" he observed blandly. "Never heard of him!"

Bookie Skarvan shifted his cigar butt—with his tongue.

"That's too bad!" he said—and leaned a little further over the bar. "I've come a long way to see him. I'm a stranger here, and maybe I've got the wrong place. Maybe I've got the wrong name too!"—Bookie Skarvan's left eyelid twitched again—"maybe you'd know him better as the Scorpion?"

"Maybe I would—if I knew him at all," said the bartender non-committally. "Wot's your lay? Fly-cop?"

"You're talking now!" said Bookie Skarvan, with a grin. He pulled a letter from his pocket, and pushed it across the bar. "You can let the Scorpion figure out for himself how much of a fly-cop I am when he gets his lamps on that. And it's kind of important! Get me—friend?"

The bartender picked up the plain, sealed envelope—and twirled it meditatively in his hands for a moment, while his eyes again searched Bookie Skarvan's face.

"You seem to know yer way about!" he admitted finally, as though not unfavorably impressed by this later inspection.

Bookie Skarvan shoved a cigar across the bar.

"It's straight goods, colonel," he said. "I'm all the way from 'Frisco, and everything's on the level. I didn't blow in here on a guess. Start the letter, on its way, and let the Scorpion call the turn. If he don't want to see me, he don't have to see."

"All right!" said the bartender abruptly. "But I'm tellin' youse straight I ain't seen him to-night, an' I ain't sayin' he's to be found, or that he's stickin' around here anywhere."

"I'll wait," said Bookie Skarvan pleasantly.

The bartender walked down the length of the bar, disappeared through a door at the rear for a moment, and, returning, rejoined the group at the upper end of the room.

Bookie Skarvan waited. Perhaps five minutes passed. The door at the rear of the bar opened slightly, the bartender sauntered down in that direction, and an instant later nodded his head over his shoulder to Bookie Skarvan, motioning him to come around the end of the bar.

"Cunny!" he said, "he announced, stepping aside from the doorway to allow Bookie Skarvan to pass. "De Chink!" show youse de way." He grinned suddenly. "I guess youse are on de level all right, or youse wouldn't be goin' where youse are!"

The door closed behind him, and Bookie Skarvan found himself in a narrow, dimly-lighted passage. A small, wizened Chinaman, in a white blouse, standing in front of him, smiled blandly.

"You friend of Scorpy's—that allee same belly blood. You come," invited the man, and scuffled off along the hall.

Bookie Skarvan followed—and smiled to himself in complacent satisfaction. Cunny Smeeks, alias the Scorpion, as if surroundings were any criterion, living up to his reputation—which was a not insignificant item on Bookie Skarvan's "dope-sheet"—as one of the "safest," as well as one of the most powerful criminal leaders in the underworld of New York.

"Sure!" said Bookie Skarvan to himself. "That's the way I got the dope—and it's right!"

The passage swerved suddenly, and became almost black. Bookie Skarvan could just barely make out the flutter of the white blouse in front of him. And then the guide's voice floated back:

"Allee same stairs here—you look out!"

Cautioned, Bookie Skarvan descended a steep flight of stairs warily into what was obviously, though it was too dark to see, a cellar. Ahead of him, however, there appeared, as through an opening of some sort, a faint glow of light again, and toward this the white blouse fluttered its way. And then Bookie Skarvan found himself in another passage; and a strange, sweetish odor came to his nostrils; and strange sounds, subdued whisperings, rustlings, the dull ring of metal like coin thrown upon a table, reached his ears. And there seemed to be doors now on either side, and curtained hangings, and it was soft and silent underfoot.

"I dunno," observed Bookie Skarvan to himself. "I dunno—it ain't got much on 'Frisco, at that!" The guide halted, and opened a door. A soft, mellow light shone out. Bookie Skarvan smiled knowingly. He was not altogether unsophisticated! A group of richly dressed Chinamen were absorbed in cards. Scarcely one of them looked up. Bookie Skarvan's eyes passed over the group almost contemptuously, and fixed on the only man in the room who was not playing, and, likewise, the only man present who was not an Oriental, and who, with hands in his pockets, and slouch hat pushed back from his forehead, stood watching the game—a man who was abnormally short in stature, and enormously broad in shoulders, and who had hair of a violently aggressive red, and whose eyes, as he turned now to look toward the door, were of a blue so faded as to make them unpleasantly colorless.

Bookie Skarvan remained tentatively on the threshold. He needed no further introduction—no one to whom the man had been previously described could mistake Cunny Smeeks, alias the Scorpion.

The other came quickly forward now with outstretched hand.

"Any friend of Baldy Vickers is a friend of mine," he said heartily. "You want to see me—eh? Well, come along, cull, where we can talk."

He led the way a little further down the passage, and into another room, and closed the door. The furnishings here were meager, and evidently restricted entirely to the necessities of poppy. There was a couch, and beside it a small tabouret for the opium smoker's paraphernalia.

The Scorpion pointed to the couch; and possessed himself of the tabouret, which he straddled.

"Sit down," he invited. "Have a drink?"

"No," said Bookie Skarvan. "Thanks just the same. I guess I won't take anything to-night." He grinned significantly. "I'm likely to be busy."

The Scorpion nodded.

DUTIES AND FUNCTIONS CROWD HER MARY'S DAY

Queen Mary Spends Idle Moments With Princess's Baby.

THIS is the third of a series of intimate stories of Queen Mary of England. The articles are written by a lady of the royal court and reveal the personal side of her majesty's life.

By A LADY OF THE ENGLISH COURT.
The Queen's Daily Routine.

LONDON, Aug. 12.

QUEEN MARY is a strict disciplinarian, with herself as with others. For instance, she does not like to be reminded that, like all Englishwomen of the upper classes, a maid wakes her by serving her tea and biscuit in bed. She considers this a lazy habit. Yet it is a needful preparation for the busy day that follows.

After tea in bed at 7, at 8 o'clock the Queen rises and bathes in warm water. Her linen is fresh daily and is brought by the maid responsible for this department of the Queen's wardrobe. Having donned a morning robe, the Queen is for an hour or more in the hands of the maids whose duty it is to care for her hair, her skin and manicuring. The latter is an exacting function, if only because the Queen must give her hand to be kissed by so many people daily. One of her three personal maids then brings Her Majesty's breakfast dress and her jewelry. Always, even so early in the day, the Queen wears rings, a brooch, earrings and frequently a necklace. The King is very watchful of the Queen's jewels and often inquires about them at breakfast. That meal is served on the ground floor beneath the Queen's suite. The King, who always rises for an hour before breakfast in the palace park, attends with his suite and the Queen's ladies.

Coffee, tea, cocoa, porridge and cream, bacon and eggs, fish, marmalade, hot scones, fruit. On a side table, cold meats of all sorts, game pasties and savory pies. Many of the recipes of the latter have been in the royal possession since Queen Elizabeth.

After breakfast the Queen goes to her morning room with her two ladies-in-waiting, her private secretary and the palace steward. After the Queen and the steward decide upon the household arrangements for the day, the Queen turns to her post bag. That, of course, is vast. People do not seem to realize that a Queen, or a woman who is loved by a King, no longer goes into His Majesty's presence and asks for anything she may want. "The King's power is strictly limited. The Queen of England is a subject herself; if she or her husband broke the law of the land, either one could be brought into court and tried. Letters asking the Queen to intervene on behalf of persons who are being tried in the courts are, of course, immediately forwarded to the Home Secretary. But there are hundreds of these letters monthly.

Another thing—the English King has, officially, no relations outside his own country, and it is the same with the Queen. Technically, he cannot correspond with his blood kindred beyond the borders of the realm. Actually it is done, but privately. During the war the Kaiser endeavored to drag George V. into a controversy by addressing him in correspondence as "Cousin." The correspondence was discontinued.

Army of Typists Aids Queen.

What royalty can do, however, is to help suffering and to assist all good causes. The extent and nature of the help must be determined by themselves, just as if they were private persons. The funds must come out of their own purse, too. Imagine the work required to decide between this cause and that and to extend help with the dwindling income which Parliament allows to their majesties.

All genuinely meant letters are, however, carefully and immediately investigated. The work which the Queen does for hospitals alone in this hour or two in the morning would fill another woman's day. Her majesty's private secretary, a lady in waiting and a maid of honor help in this work. A small army of typists, each member of which is sworn to secrecy, does the mechanical work.

The Queen writes in her own hand only to her immediate relatives. All other letters are written by her ladies "by Her Majesty's Command."

After the day's correspondence is done the Queen goes for a walk in the palace grounds. This is never omitted unless the Queen is ill. In the cold days of last March she was to be seen daily wheeling up and down in Buckingham Palace gardens, her new little grandson, son of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles. The Queen was manifestly delighted to be allowed to do as she chose for an hour or so.

A Shopping Experience.

Then, if she has not lingered at her exercise too long, the Queen goes to shop at Harrod's or at Selfridge's. Or her quiet looking car may be seen standing for a long time before an antique shop called Isaac's, in Oxford Street.

Isaac's, in Oxford Street, is a favorite dress shop.

Chablis or Sauterne or Barsac. Guests, of course, drink what they please in theory, but actually immoderation would be impossible before the stone wall of court etiquette. The care of the King's wine cellars is in the hands of the wine steward to the King, actually gentleman of the court.

At Christmas are served the old English spiced beef, the historic boar's head and the various game pasties, whose composition was determined long ago, in the time of the Tudors and the Stuarts. The beef and the boar's head are adorned with ribbons and royal rosettes and a great roasted peacock is brought in, with its magnificent feathered tail stuck aloft.

Tea Served in Palace at 5 P. M. After lunch the Queen plunges into the real task of the day. It means journeyman labor, month after month, year after year, to open as many basins, to visit as many hospitals, public nurseries, workshops and hotels, to lay as many foundation stones, to attend as many parades and receive as many deputations, as the Queen of England must.

Tea is served in the palace at 5 o'clock. It is brewed in the Queen's presence by one of her ladies. The water is boiled in a silver samovar to the fraction of a second, and one responsible of a special blend of tea is infused for each guest. The tea is never strong; the Queen thinks strong tea is bad for the nerves. Hot Scotch scones and light sandwiches of cress, cucumber, pate de foie gras and jam are passed. Tea is a half hour of relaxation in a busy day. "I think tea is the best meal of all," the Queen often says.

After another walk in the garden, weather permitting, the Queen has the daily papers read to her. She dutifully reads all the important news. Then the books are opened which have been bought for her by the ladies-in-waiting, who know her tastes. Consultations follow with the King, who never acts in important matters without the Queen's advice. While she is being read to the Queen usually embroilers or knits, and this work is often sold at charity bazaars.

Mark the Gentleman

If He Disregards Some Conventions He Is Likely to Disregard More Important Requirements

By Betty Vincent.

"MEET me at the drug store at eight," says chipper Jonny Jones, "and we'll go to the movies tonight."

And sometimes when the girl protests and says, "But, why don't you call for me at my home?" Johnny wiggles around from one foot to the other, blushes to the roots of his hair and replies, "Oh, dawgonit, I detest meeting pas and mas. Come on, meet me at the drug store. It's old-fashioned to call!"

And then there is another type of young man, who drives a gay-colored little roadster and tells you to meet him just around the corner from your home. He also drops you just a block before you reach your home on the way home from a drive.

But if the modern girl is clever she insists upon Johnny Jones meeting her folks at her home before she goes to the movies with him and she refuses to go driving with the chap in the roadster unless he drives directly to her home and meets dad or her mother.

For the moment a girl consents to clandestine meetings and meets men away from her home she puts herself down in the "common, cheap, unconventional class."

It may be true that it is old-fashioned to call. It sometimes happens that a girl does not have the sort of living room or reception hall she would like for receiving young men callers, but it is still considered the thing to have one's new acquaintances meet some member of the family and call for one in the evening.

And it is never "the thing" to go out to meet a man. If he is not gentleman enough to call at your home if he wishes to take you to the movies or to drive up to your home if he wishes to take you for a motor drive, depend upon it he is not gentleman enough to consider marriage certificates and wedding rings. He is not the type of man you care to meet.

The modern girl should be most firm on this subject and if she has character she will see to it that the modern young man respects her wishes. Of course, Johnny Jones much prefers to have her meet him at the corner drug store. Youth always avoids meeting older people. Her dad or her mother never interest a young man very much. He is always "bored stiff" and if he can see her without going through all this conventionality, of course he will take advantage of her meekness in not insisting that he call for her.

But some day this same young man will become more polished and sophisticated and he will meet a young woman who absolutely insists that he call if he wishes to take her out. And then he will brag to all his chums that at last he has met a real blue-blooded young woman, not the type of girl who meets you on the corner.

advance, however, by court etiquette and the details of her wardrobe. The Queen is by nature a business woman and this ordering of routine is done with a light and practiced touch.

Formerly the hours between tea and dinner were devoted to the royal children. Ten or 15 years ago there were so many of them that the newspapers called the palace circle "a nursery court." Now, except for Princess Mary's baby, the only child in the immediate family is the little boy of Princess "Pat" (Lady Patricia Ramsey), the King's niece. The lone urchin often comes to see his aunt after tea, playing with the policemen at the gates and the tall, sedate servants on the way.

Dinner is served between 8:30 and 9 o'clock. Invariably full dress is worn. The Queen bathes again, has her hair dressed for a second time and her evening clothes and jewels are brought.

Jewels and clothes are all kept under lock and key and must be signed for by ladies-in-waiting who receive them from the maids responsible. An expert maid exam-

What you keep by you you may change and mend. But words once spoken can never be recalled.

Mad wars destroy in one year the works of many years of peace.

It is success that colors all things in life.

THE FRESH START.

ON yesterday things all went wrong, from rise till set of sun, the dreary hours dragged along, our troubles weighed a ton. Upon the erstwhile azure sky sailed clouds as black as night, and with amazed and dismal eye we saw our hopes take flight. With gloomy accents we remarked: "Say, what's the use to try? The Jinx beside our path is parked, and smites us hip and thigh." Indeed, it seemed a hopeless plight, as any man would say; but that was far away last night, today's another day! For when the sun, all gold and red, danced up above the hill, by every day's nodding head, by every laughing rill, I knew the time for grief was done, was gone with shades of night, and with the morning's shining sun new hopes dawned fair and bright. Oh, that's the beauty of the way this old earth spins along and brings fresh loveliness each day to match the sky-lark's song! For with the brightness and the bloom, the fragrance and the dew, the morning's subtly sweet perfume, fresh courage wakens, too. New power tingles through the veins, new hope commands: "Take heart! Forget the past, its griefs and pains, and make another start! Old yesterday's a long way back, today's the day for you; start down the morning's shining track and see what you can do! Though yesterday things all went wrong, it's gone forevermore; today try going pretty strong and even up the score. Of all men's follies this is chief: to live with backward gaze; the past is done, its reign was brief, today's the best of days!"

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

PETER RABBIT can see a joke even when it is on himself. What is better, he can laugh at himself. This is something a lot of people cannot do. It came over Peter all in a flash that it was his own ignorance that had given Spotty the Turtle a chance to play such a joke on him. When Spotty had said that he was going to get a lunch Peter had asked if he might go along, and Spotty had told him that he might. Then Spotty had dived into the water and disappeared. Of course, Peter couldn't follow him and, of course, Spotty had known that.

Suddenly Peter burst out laughing. "Ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho, ho! He, he, he!" laughed Peter. Spotty kept his face straight, but his eyes twinkled. "What are you laughing at?" he demanded. "At myself," replied Peter. "Of course you have been laughing down inside ever since I asked to go along to lunch with you. I don't blame you a bit. It was a good joke on me. Now tell me, Spotty, do you get all your food in the water?"

"Every bit of it," replied Spotty. "Don't you ever get a bite when you are out on the bank?" Peter asked.

"According to Hoyle"

His treatise on whist, first published in 1743, ran through five editions in one year, and Hoyle received about $5000 from the publisher. For a time Hoyle held a public office in Ireland which paid him $3000 a year, although his duties required but a small part of his time. Hoyle also gave instructions in whist to the nobility and gentry, his charge being $5 per lesson.

"Not a bite," replied Spotty. "You see it wouldn't do me any good if I did." Peter pricked up his ears and looked surprised. "Why wouldn't it?" he demanded. "Because I couldn't swallow it," replied Spotty. "You couldn't swallow what?" cried Peter. "I couldn't swallow it," repeated Spotty. "Do you mean that if you got a mouthful of food on the bank you couldn't swallow it?" persisted Peter.

"That is just what I mean," replied Spotty. "But why not?" persisted Peter. "That's something I cannot answer because I don't know," replied Spotty. "You'll have to ask Old Mother Nature. All I know is that I cannot swallow unless I have my head under water. If I couldn't get into the water I would starve to death."

Peter suddenly remembered Snapper the Snapping Turtle, the big, fierce cousin of Spotty, and how he had heard the same thing about Snapper. He remembered that when he had first heard it he hadn't believed it. It was hard to believe now, but he felt right in his bones that Spotty was telling the truth. "What do you eat, anyhow?" Peter asked. "Whatever I can get," replied Spotty. "Tadpoles are very good eating, and so are young fish. Then down on the bottom of the Smiling Pool there are insects which are very tasty. Also there are water plants by way of variety. It was some of these that I had for lunch just now. If you had come along, Peter, you might have tried them too." Spotty's eyes twinkled. Peter laughed. "I'll take your word for it that they were good," said he. "Now I understand why it is I never have seen you eat. It does seem funny to think of having to keep one's head under water in order to swallow."

Why Those Prettier Teeth?

They use a new way of teeth cleaning

Dainty people—millions of them—now combat the film

Wherever dainty people gather you see glistening teeth today. Cloudy teeth are rarer. Note what attraction those whiter teeth add to men and women.

Learn the way to get them. Accept this ten-day test. Millions now enjoy the benefits. Bring them to your home.

Film hides their beauty

It is film that keeps teeth cloudy—that viscous film you feel. Much of it resists the tooth brush, clings and stays. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it.

Soon that film discolors, then forms dingy coats which hide the luster of the teeth. Film also causes most tooth troubles. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Under old methods, very few escaped troubles caused by film.

New discoveries made

Dental science has now discovered two effective ways to fight film, and has simply proved them out. One acts to disintegrate the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Protect the Enamel

Deposited substances on the teeth cause decay. Remove them with an agent that cleans the enamel without harming the teeth.

Then you will realize that all in your home should daily use this method. Cut out coupon now.

The Man on the Sandbox

TAMING THE WILD BULL

JACK DEMPSEY on an autumn night,
With Luis Firpo had a fight.

They battled at the Polo Grounds
And fought two sanguinary rounds.

Although the briefest of affairs,
It made both fighters millionaires.

The Wild Bull, from the Argentine,
Was all hot up and feeling mean.

When Dempsey knocked him to the floor
It made him wilder than before.

And when he got another spill
It seemed to make him wilder still.

He kissed the canvas seven times
But didn't listen to the chimes.

At last he raised his trainer's hopes
By knocking Dempsey through the ropes.

Although it was a mighty feat,
The Pampas Bull had shot his bolt.

For Dempsey weathering the storm
Climbed back again and showed his form.

He brushed the cobwebs from his brain
And calmly faced the Bull again.

He proved himself a fighting bound
By winning in the second round.

He hammered at the Pampas Bull
Until his plight was pitiful.

At last the Bull could fight no more
And went to sleep upon the floor.

From which he rose, his stomach full,
A tamer and a wiser Bull.

And the saddest words in Argentine Are these, to-wit: "It might have been."

TOO TRUE

If the Wild Bull hadn't been so wild he might have done better.
Taming wild bulls is Dempsey's dish.

At that he came pretty near taming the champ with a wild swing.

Jack Kearns admits that he lost his equanimity for the nonce when Firpo knocked Dempsey for a row of press seats.

Luis would make a better showing if he would let his left hand get hep to what his right hand is doing and co-operate with it once in a while.

WAITING FOR THE CONCLUSION

On one of our warships a junior officer was preparing for shore leave. He called his attendant, a young negro boy, newly recruited and green to the service.

"Sam," he said, following the usual formality, "give my compliments to the executive officer and tell him I desire permission to go ashore."

"Yassah," said Sam, standing at attention.
The officer went on dressing. Looking about, a minute later he was astonished to see the boy still at attention in the doorway.

"Well," he said sharply, "why don't you go?"
"Way, sir," said Sam, "I ain't heered no compliments, yet."

LEGISLATOR PLANNING IMPEACHMENT

BANK ROBBERS TERRORIZE TOWN NEARLY 2 HOURS

Six Explosions Wreck Depository at Cleveland, Minn.—Men Escape With $14,000 Loot.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, Minn., Sept. 16.—A robber gang terrorized this little village early today, holding the town at bay nearly two hours while they wrecked the vault of the First State Bank by a series of six terrific explosions, and then fled in a stolen automobile with cash and bonds estimated in value at between $14,000 and $18,000.

The robbers held the town in reign of fear, firing a number of shots to intimidate the more venturesome who sought to investigate the uproar while they shattered the vault and safe doors.

Before fleeing the robbers, said number five, severed telephone wires, preventing immediate notification of authorities in nearby towns. It was about 1:15 a. m. when the bandits entered the town. Going to the First State Bank, they forced entrance through a door and window, and the first contact was with the vault set off the burglar alarm which aroused most of the village residents.

Possibly only two of the bandits worked inside the bank, for along the street in front they had posted three for lookouts who fired into the air at any indication of curiosity on the part of citizens.

Harry Duse, who owns a garage and lives only about 200 feet from the bank, heard the burglar alarm and decided to investigate. Just as he opened the door of his home he was met with a sharp command "keep your nose inside or I'll blow your brains out." Duse stayed at home.

Bank Robbers Routed by Citizens of Mathersville, Ill.

By the Associated Press.
GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 16.—Four robbers, who attempted to blow the safe of the Mathersville Bank early this morning, were frightened away by residents of the city who awakened by the dynamite explosion, got weapons and started firing. The robbers returned the fire but left the bank with only one door blown off. They did not reach the money chest.

PLANS BEING MADE TO BRING ZR-1 TO ST. LOUIS AIR RACES

Tentative Program Calls for Non-stop Flight From East Oct. 2 and Return on Oct. 4.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 16.—Plans are being made to take the ZR-1 to the air races at St. Louis on Oct. 2. Tentative plans call for take-off on Oct. 2, arrival in St. Louis early the next day and a return by Oct. 4. This is to be a non-stop flight.

Commissioning of the dirigible is expected to take place on Oct. 10 with Mrs. Edwin Denby, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, acting as sponsor.

Completion of the program for mooring masts is expected to enable the dirigible to be launched in almost any weather. It is proposed to erect such a device in each of the principal aerial defense divisions probably at Pensacola, Chicago, St. Louis, Denver, San Francisco, Panama and near Puget Sound.
